WOMAN FOR WORLD COURT

'Rum Hound' Leads Huge Still Raid

4 MEN AT PLANT ARE SEIZED

Asserted Source of Supply for County Bootleggers Destroyed
APPARATUS LARGEST IN SOUTH IS CLAIM
Sheriff's Men Swoop Down On Place Near Smeltzer, Nab Suspects

Due to a clue unwittingly supplied by a real "booze hound," a moonshine still, which, authorities said, has been supplying Orange county bootleggers and which was declared to be the largest in Southern California, was no more today. As a result of a raid conducted late yesterday, by Investigator O. K. Carr, Deputy Sheriff G. E. McClellan and Motorcycle Officer H. S. Warner, Carl Smith, Whitson Smith, Gale Smith and Paul F. Duke were held in the county jail here facing charges of manufacturing liquor.

The still, which virtually filled a room in a house at an abandoned gun club, southwest of Smeltzer, had a capacity of 100 gallons a day, officers declared. Built on a brick base, with a gigantic distillate burner, the outfit stood ten feet high. The plant was said to have been the source of supply for A. R. Lee Tennesseean, who was arrested at his home at Smeltzer Tuesday, and it was through his arrest that the big manufacturing plant was finally discovered.

In addition to the still, 50 gallons of liquor, 500 gallons of grain mash, in barrels about the place, was confiscated. A second still, as large as the first, but not in operation, was also seized. Acting on a tip that a red dog was owned by the alleged distillers, officers located the place by means of this animal, which they promptly dubbed the "boozie hound."

"Boozey," as he came to be known, had faith in the moonshining abilities of his former masters, officers declared. In fact, before the evening was done, with him licking up puddles of spilled corn whiskey, and lapping out the insides of mash containers, he was "about three sheets to the wind," a deputy remarked. Finding Three at Work
Breaking into the house, the raiders found three of the four men arrested at work operating the still, they said. The burner under the still was shut off, but before it cooled, nearly a gallon of the liquor was distilled. The arrested men were taken to the Orange county jail, and Sheriff Sam Jernigan, Constables Jesse Elliott and Joseph Ryan and Motorcycle Officer L. J. Heffner returned to begin the work of dismantling the plant. So large was the still that it was necessary to tear it down before it could be loaded into a truck, to be hauled back to the sheriff's office here.

In a barn, adjoining the "distillery," was found more than two tons of grain, presumably a supply from which mash was to be made. The plant was carefully constructed from galvanized iron and copper, with a copper coil, probably 15 feet long and two inches in diameter, which ran through a condensing tank in which running cold water was contained. Sold at Wholesale, Claim
No retail business was done at the plant, officers declared, but liquor was sold in 10 gallon kegs at $15 a gallon to bootleggers, for distribution throughout Orange county, they believed. It was thought that the place raided was the source of supply for Seal Beach, Anaheim, Santa Ana, Huntington Beach and other towns in the county. The liquor was high grade whiskey, from corn, barley and rye, and tested 118 proof, according to the officers. Wright act violation charges will be preferred against the men.

Beauty Turns Down Marriage Proposal Of Prince of Wales

LADY MARY CAMBRIDGE, Who, according to rumors floating around among British society, has declined an opportunity to be Queen of England. Lady Mary recently became betrothed to the Marquis of Worcester. Her engagement to the Prince of Wales was frequently rumored and now gossip in London is that she refused England's future king when he proposed.

FIRE PERILS STEAMER ON L. A. CRUISE

Japanese Cargo Ship Rushing to San Pedro as Flames Are Confined to Hold.

LOS ANGELES, April 12.—With a serious fire raging in her hold, the Japanese cargo steamer Fuji Maru is racing for safety towards San Pedro today. Fragmentary wireless messages received on shore late last night indicated that the vessel was 500 miles out at sea. The fire, which is imperiling the lives of the 40 members of her crew, has already destroyed a considerable portion of the Fuji Maru's cargo. The boat was on her way from New York to California ports via the canal. She was already three days overdue at San Pedro when radiograms telling of the fire were received.

RULING TO HIT 'LITTLE DRY' ACTS, VIEW

(By United Press Leased Wire) SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—Effect on so-called "little Volstead acts" of California cities and counties of a decision handed down yesterday by the state supreme court, was the subject of much conjecture here today. The court held that in no case may a state court impose punishment in excess of that provided in the Wright prohibition enforcement act. In many counties the "little Volstead acts" permit punishment beyond that specified by the Wright act. It was generally agreed by attorneys that such provisions exceeding the maximum Wright act penalty in "little Volstead acts" are rendered invalid by the decision. The opinion was written by Judge Curtis J. Wilbur and all members of the court concurred. It was in the case of Arthur Mingo, who had been sentenced by a justice of the peace to serve 90 days in jail and pay a $500 fine under the Kings county law. The Wright act provides a fine alone for a first offender, not per court held that because of the jail sentence the penalty imposed was invalid. In a Fresno county case, that of J. H. Kinnerly, who was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 with an alternative of a day in jail for each dollar unpaid, the court sustained the sentence, pointing out that the jail term was an alternative.

HARDING PLANS SUBSIDY DRIVE

SPEED PLANS TO ASSIST VETERANS SHIP LOSSES ARE CAUSE OF WORRY

New Bureau Chief to Make Survey of Pacific Coast Needs

(By United Press Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, April 12.—Vital measures affecting the veterans' bureau hospitalization program for disabled ex-service men were announced here today by General Frank L. Hines, director of the bureau, after a two day conference with the federal board of hospitalization. They include: Lease by the veterans' bureau of the American Legion Memorial sanatorium at Kerrville, Texas, until June 30, 1923. Final rejection of all bids for the projected hospital at Livermore, Calif. Decision to push its survey of needs of ex-service men in the Pacific coast district with a view to adding to or building new facilities, to be distributed equally between northern and southern California. Renewal of its offer of $175,000 for the Hahnemann hospital at Portland, Ore.

Decision to consolidate all supply depots of the bureau into three great depots to be located at Perryville, Mr. Chicago and somewhere on the Pacific coast. The decision to reject the Livermore, Calif., hospital bids was merely formal ratification by the federal board of action previously taken by the veterans' bureau. With this project out of the question, Hines was authorized by the board to institute a survey to determine if existing facilities, such as exist at Sawtelle, Calif., may not be increased to cope with conditions on the coast.

GOVERNOR'S ACTION SURPRISES SOLONS

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 12.—Governor Friend W. Richardson today announced that he will hold an open hearing on the Jones-Broughton community property bill at 2 p. m. Monday, passed by both houses of the legislature and now awaiting executive action. If not a precedent in such matters, at least a most unusual action, members of the legislature were surprised at the governor's plan to acquaint himself with the proposed measure. It was pointed out that while past executives have held private conference over bills before signing or vetoing them, an open hearing such as Governor Richardson contemplated is most unusual. The bill approved in the assembly last Friday, must be acted upon by the governor within ten days after its passage. Monday, the day set for the hearing, is the tenth day following the measure's legislative approval.

MURDER CASE ALIBI UNDER HOT ATTACK

SAN DIEGO, Calif., April 12.—A telling blow at the alibi of Dr. Louis L. Jacobs, accused of the murder of Fritz Mann, dancer, was struck by the prosecution today in rebuttal testimony. District Attorney Kempey produced as a witness L. M. Ashby, former motorcycle officer, who swore he was with Dr. Jacobs at the Golden Lion safe one night in January and that the night was Saturday, January 13, and not Sunday, January 14, the night Fritz died. A waitress and the cashier at the Golden Lion previously testified that Dr. Jacobs was in the cafe on Sunday, January 14.

SENTENCED TO DEATH. CLARKSBURG, W. Va., April 12.—The death sentence today was passed on Phil Connizarro, second of eleven alleged leaders in the West Virginia syndicate to be sentenced to hang for complicity in the murder of Frank Napier.

Executive Expects to Force Action By Appeal To Farmers

(By United Press Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, April 12.—President Harding is still full of fight against those persons and interests he regards as hostile to the maintenance of an American merchant marine. Mr. Harding has a surprise in store for them, which shows his determination that the American flag shall fly over the ships carrying American goods, has not abated. This surprise may become apparent following the conference between the president and the shipping board here Saturday. Or it may be withheld for strategic reasons later. To Build Sentiment
In any event, the president intends in talking to his countrymen in his forthcoming non-political western tour, to impress particularly inland and farming communities with the importance to them of having an American fleet to carry abroad American commerce, instead of having to let British and other foreign vessels carry their commerce. It is now his purpose to build up public sentiment for the new administration program which will be worked out with the shipping board at conferences beginning Saturday. For, while he has authority to put the new plan into operation without congressional sanction, Mr. Harding intends to throw the question into congress again, and force it to take the responsibility for settlement. Executive is Confident
The president is committed to the belief that a temporary loss now, unfortunate as it may be, and hard for the treasury to bear, is less of an evil than the loss to the country of the merchant fleet it built up at such a staggering cost during the war. If he can get the economic fact of the fleet's importance, both in peace and war, properly before the country, Mr. Harding feels confident the next congress will be forced to approve a course that will save the ships from passing into foreign control or being allowed to rot in disuse.

(By United Press Leased Wire) WASHINGTON, April 12.—Evidence tending to prove a conspiracy of sugar gamblers responsible for the recent boost of sugar prices was to be laid before Acting Attorney General A. T. Seymour in New York today by Federal District Attorney Hayward, whose office gathered the data. The probe, which has been under way for nearly a month is said to have reached a point where concrete evidence, warranting drastic legal action against those responsible for the boosts is in the hands of the department.

PROMINENT SAN DIEGO MERCHANT IS MISSING

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—Sugar took another jump today. The California-Hawaiian sugar refining company, one of the largest producers, announced a raise in price of fifteen cents per 100 pounds, making the new price for sugar to the wholesalers at the refinery $9.60 per 100 pounds. The crew of twenty-three men was taken off the vessel by the tug Humacoma after the second call for aid sent out by the Lewers. The tug Sea Monarch which also went to the assistance of the Lewers, in attempting to get a tow line aboard the stranded ship, fouled herself and was blown ashore. No one was injured in either accident. PORTLAND, Ore., April 12.—The ex-German liner Susquehanna was well on her way south today after being stranded yesterday on Willow Bar, in the Columbia river west of here. The steam tug Shaver added her in regaining the channel. The hull was undamaged.

Solons Defeat Bill To Halt Capital Punishment In State

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 12.—Capital punishment will continue in California. The assembly judiciary committee last night tabled by a vote of 13 to 5 the Fellom bill abolishing the death penalty in this state. The vote followed an open hearing attended by a crowd which overflowed the committee room and forced adjournment to the assembly chambers. Assembly Fellow and Dr. Spence Burton, San Quentin chaplain, were chief speakers in favor of the measure, declaring that capital punishment does not act as a deterrent to murders and is always escaped by the wealthy.

THREE LOST TOTS TAKEN FROM VAULT

Youngsters Missing Since Tuesday Are Found Near Death in Old Refrigerator. WARREN, Ohio, April 12.—Weak from exhaustion but still alive, three children, the oldest five, missing from their homes since Tuesday night, were found locked in the refrigerator vault of an abandoned building late today. They are Marguerite Williams, five, her brother John, 3, and Theresa Sandford, 3. The boy apparently had closed the door of the almost air tight vault from the inside. Rescue parties, believing the children had fallen from a trestle, were still dragging the Mahoning river when they were discovered in the vault.

SEIZE SUSPECT WHOM WOMAN WOUNDED

Antonio Flores, Anaheim, was in the county hospital here today, receiving treatment for a bullet wound in his left leg, inflicted by Mrs. H. H. Knowlton, Anaheim, late yesterday afternoon. Meanwhile a warrant had been procured for Flores' arrest on vagrancy charges. According to the story that Mrs. Knowlton told Deputy Sheriff Herman Zabel and Police Officer Scott Wilson, who investigated, the Mexican was loitering about an orange grove near which several children were playing. Several times he approached the children, and finally, fearing for their safety, Mrs. Knowlton obtained her husband's revolver, and ordered the man to leave. Instead of departing, she said, he started toward the house. Firing one shot into the air, to frighten the man, Mrs. Knowlton again told him to stop, she says. When he failed to obey, she aimed a shot at him, and wounded him in the flesh of his leg. Even this failed to halt the man, and when he was apprehended by the officers, he was in a billiard room at Anaheim, two miles distant. Flores served six months in the county jail for vagrancy during 1921, according to records in the bureau of identification, and served a sentence at Riverside in 1917 for giving liquor to Indians.

GROUND SCHOONER AT MERCY OF GALE

(By United Press Leased Wire) SEATTLE, Wash., April 12.—The schooner Robert Lewers went ashore near Pachena Point, on the lower shore of Vancouver island, last night, and at last reports to the harbor radio station here was pounding to pieces in a forty mile gale. The crew of twenty-three men was taken off the vessel by the tug Humacoma after the second call for aid sent out by the Lewers. The tug Sea Monarch which also went to the assistance of the Lewers, in attempting to get a tow line aboard the stranded ship, fouled herself and was blown ashore. No one was injured in either accident. PORTLAND, Ore., April 12.—The ex-German liner Susquehanna was well on her way south today after being stranded yesterday on Willow Bar, in the Columbia river west of here. Hoover's Plea for Executive's Plan Stirs Des Moines Convention

RESOLUTION GOES BEFORE COMMITTEE

Possibility of Membership In League New Administration Topic
DES MOINES, Ia., April 12.—A resolution endorsing President Harding's plan for participation of the United States in the international court of justice was introduced by Miss Ruth Morgan, chairman of the National Council for Prevention of War, at today's session of the National League of Women Voters' convention. The resolution will lay in committee twenty-four hours before action is taken. Following the "key note" speech by Herbert Hoover, who outlined what was regarded as the administration's stand last night, Miss Morgan announced she would introduce her resolution. Hoover, in defending the court, declared that it would not involve the country in the League of Nations, but affiliation of the United States is "essential to peace."

LEAGUE MEMBERSHIP IS NEW HARDING PROBLEM. WASHINGTON, April 12.—Possibility of American membership in the League of Nations is being seriously considered by officials of the Harding administration, a member of the cabinet told the United Press today. The question is being studied upon this basis: 1—Should the United States join the league in carrying out the administration pledge to take definite steps, in association with other nations, to prevent war. 2—If so, upon what terms should the league be entered? These administration officials, who say they are looking far ahead take the position: That the proposal to enter the world court of the league is only a partial step toward war prevention. That, as the administration is pledged to seek war prevention, any opportunity to carry out that pledge should be seized. That it is obvious that the league covenant would have to be materially changed before American membership could be considered. The changes regarded as essential would include: Separation of the league covenant from the Versailles treaty. Elimination of the underlying idea of force as the "motive power" of the league. This would include abrogation or amendment of Article X.

ANTI-ALIEN LAW IS FACING COURT TEST

(By United Press Leased Wire) SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—Test of the leasing clause in the California anti-alien law will be made before the United States supreme court at Washington Monday. Attorney General U. S. Webb was en route to Washington today to defend the validity of the clause which prevents persons not eligible to citizenship leasing land in the state, or holding land through stock ownership in land owning corporations. Attorney Louis Marshall of New York will represent Japanese and other interests seeking to have the clause declared unconstitutional.

COAST FLYER HANGS UP AIR RECORD

PORTLAND, Ore., April 12.—Lieutenant J. W. Benton, of the army air service, has established what is believed to be a non-stop airplane flight record from Grissler Field, Calif., to Vancouver Barracks, Wash. Lieutenant Benton reported at Vancouver Barracks at 3:35 yesterday afternoon after being in the air six hours and ten minutes. The air line between the two points is 650 miles.

'RUM' HOUND LEADS IN BIG STILL RAID

It was said. The crime alleged is a high misdemeanor, involving superior court proceedings.

Never before in the history of Orange county, and probably never before in Southern California, has so large a still been seized, officers here declared. With the arrest of the four men taken into custody last night, and the Tennesseean the day before, authorities were confident that they had fractured the backbone of one of the biggest bootlegging rings in the state.

One Fined $350

Arraigned before Justice Cox today, Whitson Smith, charged with possession of liquor, entered a plea of guilty. He was fined $350 or ordered to be confined in the jail for 180 days. He will be arraigned this afternoon on charges of manufacturing.

Carls and Gail Smith pleaded not guilty to similar charges and their trial was set for May 22 at 2 p. m. They were held in default of $1000 bail each.

The trio were to be arraigned later today on charges of manufacturing which carries a maximum penalty of three years imprisonment, authorities stated.

Duke had not been arraigned on any charge up to noon today. He was not present when the still was seized, but had rented the property to the men, and attempted to prevent the officers from going to the house, they declared.

BATH FOR BATH IS RUSSIAN IDEA OF SECURING REVENUE

MOSCOW, April 12.—"Did you have your bath?" the man at the register office of the main Moscow police station asked the Swedish trade delegate, when he reported himself to get his permit.

"What do you mean by that?" asked the surprised Swede. "I certainly have had my bath as usual."

"I mean did you have your bath in Moscow?" the man insisted.

"Yes, I had my bath in Moscow, too, as usual, every day," was the answer.

"Well, can you show an official certificate that you had your compulsory bath in Moscow?"

"What the d—do you mean? I don't know of any compulsory bath and what is more I am not going to have any," the angry Swede blurted out.

He had it, nevertheless, in a public bath, where he was marched by a policeman.

It was only until after he returned home that he remembered that some time ago when the People's Commissary Krassin, on passing the Swedish border, was forced to take a bath despite his wild protestations that he did not need any bath.

That is how Krassin got even with the Swedes. He has a good memory and has given strictest orders that all Swedish subjects visiting Russia have to get their baths.

CHARTER PROponents TELL OF MEASURE'S ADVANTAGES

With M. B. Wellington, local attorney, scheduled to speak tonight at the Yost theater in behalf of the city charter and George R. Wells assigned to the West End theater, charter proponents today continued their campaign to advise the public on the advantages of the proposed new law to govern the city of Santa Ana.

Owing to a misunderstanding, only one of the three-minute speakers spoke at the theaters last night. George Wells gave an address at the West End theater.

In an address at the Lions club meeting at St. Ann's Inn at noon today, Attorney S. B. Kaufman declared that to a certain extent the federal government was operating along lines proposed by the charter.

Referring to objections to the charter on the ground that the city manager is a creature of the council rather than of the people, the attorney pointed to the appointment of federal judges by the President.

"The form of government of this nation is conceded to be the best of any nation in the world," said Kaufman. "The people vote on electors, who in turn elect the President. The President appoints the judges. This judiciary is generally accepted as being supreme to every other kind in the world."

S. A. in Fifth Class Speaking on the state charter under which Santa Ana now operates, Kaufman said there are only five cities of the fifth class in the state.

"Opponents of the charter are dwelling on the idea that it would be better to amend the general laws for cities of the fifth class than to enact a charter prepared to meet the needs of a special city."

CHARTER TALKS ARE MADE AT LIONS' MEET

An address by the Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the First Christian church, and instrumental selections by Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Howe, musicians who will entertain at evangelistic meetings to open at Third and Birch streets tonight, were features of the meeting of the Lions club at St. Ann's Inn at noon today.

The pastor gave one of his usual entertaining and instructive talks, in which he declared adoption of a charter for Santa Ana was necessary to its continued growth and development.

Charter talks were made by Col. M. B. Wellington, of the Kiwanis club; Guy Gilbert, of the Rotary club, and S. B. Kaufman, of the Lions club.

The craft talk was by Frank Crites, of the high school faculty, who declared that he was a member of a profession that received the highest salary of professional men. Later he brought out that the salary was not monetary compensation, but came from the satisfaction of directing young men and women in right thinking—an influence that is reflected in later life. He asserted that the boys of this community are looking largely to the business of the city for their ideals, and he urged that each man so to conduct himself as to make the proper impression on the young men.

CATTLE BURN
IOWA CITY, Ia., April 12.—Forty head of Hereford cattle were burned to a crisp when the barn of Albert Hansen, near here, was destroyed by fire.

Kaufman stated. "You can appreciate the fact that this is almost impossible when you take into consideration the limited number of senators and assemblymen who are directly interested in the law governing cities of the fifth class."

He pointed out that the state law was passed in 1883 and since had been amended very few times. The civics affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce last night and today issued charter campaign literature. Boy Scouts are assisting in its distribution.

Literature Booths Charter "Did you ever see a business succeed unless it had one person made responsible for the efficient working of its different departments?" reads a paragraph in one of the pamphlets.

Continuing, it says: "Yet, under the present system, Santa Ana is to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars in join sewers, streets, water system and other city departments without having some one person whose sole job it is to see that all departments of the city work harmoniously together, give full time and get full value."

"The charter permits very little change in the present tax rate. Under it, the council MAY make two or three slight changes in special taxes. These changes are optional—not required. The general tax rate of $1 is unchanged; and the system of tax collection is unchanged."

The charter does give the city greater power in the things it can do than it has under the present system. It provides for the employment of a man who shall devote his entire time to seeing that the different city departments work as a unit, who can standardize purchase and eliminate waste."

Y. W. C. A.

That handsome little social service building, the Y. W. C. A. hut, on the high school campus, is to be formally dedicated to the work for which it has been established, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Members of the Y. W. C. A. and of the Girls' league of the high school will act as hostesses and will conduct the dedication service.

The girls have extended an invitation to all persons who are interested, to attend this service to be held in the hut.

With its beautiful drapes, rugs, furniture, and other interior decorations the hut will be transformed into a restful, attractive place for the work among the girls of the school.

All are busy this week, making the curtains and drapes, gathering ferns and flowers to be used in decoration and making plans for Sunday's dedication and for the opening reception which will be held Monday night at 8 o'clock. At that event the receiving committee will be made up of members of the building committee, Y. W. C. A. cabinet, Girls' league cabinet and school heads.

Refreshments will be served during the evening and the girls are making careful plans for receiving any persons who wish to inspect the hut. They are hoping that there will be a great many citizens who will be interested in attending the reception which will begin at 8 o'clock and will continue throughout the evening.

ATHENA GIRLS PRESENT POLY WITH FLAG

Further evidence of increased patriotism at the high school here, due largely to an interest that the Santa Ana chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, is taking in the Athena club, girls' organization at the school, was seen this afternoon when the club presented to the student body, in assembly, a large and beautiful silk American flag.

Miss Birdenia Henry, who is head of the physical education department at the high school and advisor for the Athena club, and who is a member of the D. A. R., has played a large part in the organizations' interchange of interest in patriotic matters, it was said. The presentation of the flag was one result of the Athena girls' increased alertness to things making for love of country.

Judge E. T. Langley, prominent G. A. R. man here, made a patriotic address following the presentation. The program was in charge of Miss Evelyn Hoffman, president of the Athena club. Patriotic songs, which Miss Margaret Wickes, head of the music department of the high school, directed, featured the assembly.

Carl Black, president of the student body, accepted the flag on behalf of that organization, and placed it in the custody of Leland Finley, president of the senior class of 1923.

The Girls' Glee club sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

Kidney and Bladder

Troubles HAVE TO GO

Clogged up Kidney Deposits are Dissolved and the Toxins (Poisons) Completely Driven Out. Druggists Told to Guarantee it in Every Instance.

"Your very life," says Dr. Carey, "depends upon the perfect functioning and health of your kidneys so whatever you do don't neglect them."

Dr. Carey's famous Prescription No. 177 (known for years as Marshroot) is not recommended for everything, but we cannot too strongly urge its use if you suffer from annoying bladder troubles, frequent passing of water night and day, with smarting or irritation, brick dust sediment or highly colored urine, bloating, irritability with loss of sleep or any other tendency to Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Gravel, for kidney disease in its worst form may be stealing upon you.

Don't wait until tomorrow to begin the use of this wonderful prescription now obtainable in both liquid and tablet form if you have any of the above symptoms. Kidney and Bladder troubles don't wear away. They will grow upon you slowly, stealthily and with unfailing certainty. If you even suspect that you are subject to Kidney Disease, don't lose a single day for C. S. Kelly Drug Co., and every good druggist has been authorized to return the purchase money on the first big bottle to all who state they have received no benefit. Mail orders accepted.—adv.

Philharmonic Programs are Announced

Bringing to a conclusion a season of unexcelled musical events, the Santa Ana Musical association will offer as its fifth and final number of the year the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra at the high school auditorium Wednesday at 8:15 p. m.

Patrons of the concert course have grown to expect the final event of the series to be the Los Angeles organization. Under the management of Mrs. Caroline E. Smith and with Walter Henry Rothwell as conductor, the orchestra, it was pointed out, is one of the finest to be heard and is a great favorite with local music lovers, many of whom attend the Los Angeles concerts as a regular thing.

Plan Afternoon Program.
Preceding the evening appearance, the orchestra will give a concert at the auditorium at 3:15 in the afternoon when only pupils and teachers of the school will be privileged to attend. A nominal price named for the tickets for the afternoon concert, will make it possible for virtually the entire student body to attend.

Of particular local interest in the afternoon will be the final number, "In the Land of the Missions" by S. J. Mustel of the music department of the Santa Ana high school. In this number, Mr. Rothwell will surrender his baton to the composer who will conduct the orchestra in the overture.

Mr. Mustel has spent much time in Los Angeles recently, rehearsing with the orchestra.

At the afternoon event, Tschalkowsky's "Nutcracker Suite" (Opus 71a) will be the opening number with its three different motifs, "Overture Minutaires," the "Dances Characteristiques," "Marche," Danse Russe, Trepak, "Danse Chinoises," and Danse "Mirlitons," followed by the "Valse des Fleurs."

Other numbers will be "Praeludium" (Jarnfeldt) Pizicato Polka from "Sylvia," (Dallies) and "Marionettes" by Glazounow.

From Bizet's Carmen will be given "Les Toreadors" and "Aragonesa" and the Overture from "William Tell" (Rossini) will conclude the afternoon program.

At the evening appearance, the orchestra has arranged the program to open with four motifs from the Rimsky-Korsakow Suite, "Scheherazade" (Opus 16). These will be "The Sea and Sinbad's Ship," "The Story of the Kalendar Prince," "The Young Prince and the Young Princess" and "The Festival at Bagdad" with its conclusion of "The Sea" and the ship going to pieces on a rock surmounted by a bronze warrior.

Two solo numbers will be given, the prelude to "Le Deluge" (Saint-Saens) as a violin solo by Sylvain Noack and a cello number, "Invocation" from Massenet's "Les Erinnyes" to be rendered by Ilya Bronson.

The overture from "Tannhauser" by Wagner will conclude the program.

MAN SEEKS RECORD OF LICENSE TO WED ERASED FROM BOOKS

"In case something had happened, could I erase my marriage license from the records of Orange county?"

Thus inquired did County Clerk J. M. Backs receive the narrative of another of love's bursted bubbles.

It was a letter from Lewis Dowdy, La Jolla.

Dowdy secured a license to wed Miss Adaline H. Barton, here, February 28, he said. Something went wrong, and Dowdy found no need for the license.

That the affair might be erased from record as well as memory, he asked Backs the question.

"You can lead a horse to water, but you can't make him drink," was Backs' comment. "They don't have to use the license, but it will have to remain on my books."

JR. H. S. GIRL GRADS TO WEAR SIMPLE GARBS

Girl members of the graduating class of junior high school were today discussing their frocks for that school event, following decision reached yesterday by their mothers assembled at the school for consultation with Mrs. Iva M. Webber, dean of girls, and other members of the teaching staff.

It was decided that much latitude would be allowed the individual members of the class except that all display and lavishness should be discouraged and avoided. Organdy or voile were decided upon as suitable materials and the girls may wear white or colored, old or new frocks as they wish, shoes and stockings any desired color.

Book Review

Of unusual interest was the meeting of the Book Review club Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Nealey when Dr. Harry Zaiser gave the address of the evening on "Pasteur and His Work."

Dr. Zaiser took up three phases of the work of the great French chemist whose centennial the world celebrated in December, 1922. The first important contribution which Pasteur made to science was in connection with ferments and putrefaction when he proved that all changes came from micro-organisms and so exploded the old theory of spontaneous generation of life.

His next great contribution was the discovery of the principle of anti-toxin which was first applied to sheep as a cure for the fatal anthrax.

Dr. Zaiser considered Pasteur's work on rabies as his greatest achievement because of the far-reaching results of the work on the advancement of science. His researches threw open the door through which have come biology, bacteriology, modern hygiene, modern medicine and modern surgery.

In conclusion Dr. Zaiser spoke of several of the late discoveries of medical science and told of their importance in the prevention of suffering and the saving of human life.

YOUTH KILLED

ORTONVILLE, Minn., April 12.—The explosion of a can of gasoline on the farm of John Paulson, east of here, resulted in the death of Alfred Paulson, aged 18. Paulson was engaged in thawing out a gasoline engine for pumping water. The explosion threw burning gasoline over him. Mrs. Paulson ran to the aid of her son and in attempting to save his life received serious burns about the hands and arms. Mar-riam Paulson, aged 12, received slight burns.

HOT LAW-CLASH
IN LAND SUIT
FORECAST

Court attaches and persons interested in the civil battle in department two, where two suits, involving the exchange of orange and lemon land at Tustin for 120 acres of farm land in Minnesota, said to be under water, were looking forward to a hot legal tilt today, as Attorneys James L. Davis and James L. Allen, counsel for William and Etta Duncan, announced that an attempt would be made to introduce depositions to show that H. R. Painter, defendant, had made similar transactions in Orange county.

The depositions will show that Painter sold land to an aged man without correctly representing its value, Allen said. Counsel for Painter was expected to object to the introduction of any evidence or depositions to this effect, declaring that it was "incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial."

Yesterday, and this morning, time was taken up in reading depositions from persons residing in Minnesota and from others in this county. Facts in these were virtually repetitions of testimony introduced yesterday and Tuesday when Painter and Duncan took the stand.

According to Duncan, he agreed to exchange the land here for the "farm" in Minnesota. After the exchange was completed, he said, he found that much of the land was under seven feet of water.

Testimony will not be completed until late today, according to Attorney Allen, and it was expected that the case would go to a jury tonight. Three days have been occupied in the trial.

YOUTH MUST SWING
FOR DESERT MURDER

(By United Press Leased Wire) EL CENTRO, April 12.—Law-ronce Campbell, charged with the murder of Leslie Nichols, was found guilty by a jury late yesterday. The jury made no recommendation that punishment be reduced to life imprisonment, and hence it will be obligatory on the court to sentence him to death.

Campbell's companion, Charles Davis, who confessed to participating in the crime, will be sentenced Friday. The pair beat, stoned and shot Nichols, an insurance agent, who had offered them a ride across the desert. Campbell and Davis both claim to be 17 years old, which would save them from the noose, but the district attorney's office says that it has positive proof that Campbell is 18.

Campbell took the news that he would probably hang in a swaggering mood. MARRY CHEAPER BOWBELLS, S. D., April 12.—County Judge Fink, as an inducement to certain people to obtain marriage licenses, has offered to issue them at half price to all applicants more than 30 years old. "I think that all those over the 30-year mark are entitled to a large discount on account of all they have been missing," said Judge Fink.

'GLOOMY DEAN' SAYS
CLEVER WOMEN DO NOT SEEK MARRIAGE

LONDON, Eng., April 12.—Clever women do not marry, says Dean Ingle, of St. Paul's. Ingle is popularly known as "The Gloomy Dean" and is official keeper of London's wet blanket.

Of 12,607 women who have attended Oxford university, the Dean declares, only 657 have married.

The Dean does not view this or any other matter with alarm. His happy philosophy is that the work at present is in a most serious state, and if any change occurred it would probably be for the worse. Dean Ingle's glooms often appear in newspapers and in his pulpit.

Oxford women, interviewed on his latest foreboding, suggest the Dean doesn't know what he's talking about. University women do marry, they declare.

These marriages, however, are only to please the men, it was pointed out, because marriage offers no advantages to the educated woman, able to earn her own living.

Educated women also are alive to the inequalities of the divorce laws and the English custom of allowing the father major control of children. When law and custom change, educated women will marry often, university women believe.

TOT BRAVES DEATH
TO SAVE PLAYMATE

(By United Press Leased Wire) LONG BEACH, Calif., April 12.—An automobile, whose brakes had become loosened while it was parked on the side of a hill came crashing down toward the yard where Little Tommy Fein and Margie Hawthorne, 2, were playing yesterday afternoon.

Sensing the danger to his little girl companion, Tommy stepped in the path of the careering driverless juggernaut, flung Margie to one side, and was struck by the on-rushing car.

The boy is in a hospital today, suffering from a possible fracture of the left leg and cuts and bruises. The car was almost totally wrecked, being stopped finally when it struck a tree. Margie was unhurt.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.—Adv.

BRITISH OFFICER
'FIEND' FOR WAR

LONDON, April 12.—The "stompy petrel" of the British army, Major-General Adrian Carton De Wiart, has turned up again—of course, in the latest war, or the nearest approach to a war, Europe can boast at the moment.

When news dispatches reported that Carton De Wiart had been arrested by Lithuanian troops in that chaotic no-man's land between Poland and Lithuania which the League of Nations has declared a "neutral zone," military circles said "Good Lord, hasn't that man had enough war yet?"

But Carton De Wiart never seems to have had enough war. Wherever there is trouble this brilliant Belgian-born British soldier is on the spot. At present he is the head of the British military mission to Warsaw, and it was in this capacity that he was on the Mamel "front" and suffered detention for a few days before the Lithuanian "irregulars" realized that he was not a safe man to hold.

ICE SETS RECORD

GRANITE FALLS, Minn., April 12.—The annual spring high water here will be the latest in many years and the river ice will set a new record for long life, according to old residents. With but one exception the ice has gone out before April 5 in the last ten years, but this spring the ice is still as solid as in mid-winter and it will take many good warm days to start it floating.

Dynamite—And the Raft in Flames!

The Basque homesteaders, frenzied by the cattle barons' efforts to oust them and seize their farms for cattle range, became tools of the wily gunman who suggested a dynamite bomb to blow out the cattlemen's dam.

It was cunningly timed, cunningly constructed, that dynamite bomb on a raft. Mercedes jumped aboard it, but before she could stamp out the fuse, she set fire to the oil-soaked raft. Helpless, with flames playing about her, she was carried with the raft on its dread trip of destruction.

Was she saved? Who won—cattlemen or homesteaders? And what of "Blaze," the young hero? Who owned the locket?

These are but a few of the thrilling incidents in—

Philharmonic Event To Be Marked By Social Affairs

In anticipation of the final event of the Santa Ana Musical association concert course, the Philharmonic concert at the high school auditorium Wednesday night, April 18, many social affairs are being planned it was revealed today. Those members of the association who plan to make the affair a financial as well as an unquestioned musical success, are seizing the opportunity offered by tickets yet available at the Santa Ana bookstores, to entertain friendly groups at dinner preceding the recital at supper following.

In this manner they may yield to their hospitable instincts and at the same time aid the association in making up the deficit now staring it in the face.

Among those so entertaining are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Gustlin who are planning a dinner that evening with covers to be laid for fifteen guests, mostly from Laguna Beach.

Parent-Teachers

LOWELL SCHOOL.
The city charter was the theme of a talk presented Tuesday night at the Lowell P. T. A. meeting by W. L. Grubb when large group of fathers and mothers of the young people of the school listened to a most enlightening and interesting exposition of the subject. Lack of familiarity with the charter was asserted by the speaker as being the sole cause anyone might have to object to it and he urged that all present obtain a copy from the city hall and familiarize themselves with it that they might see the manifold advantages of the charter form of government.

The evening's program was directed by Dr. Elliot H. Rowland who, with Messrs. C. E. Prior and Elmer Preston, served as committee on arrangements.

In addition to the talk by Mr. Grubb, two entertaining events were presented by children of the school; sixteen little girls in an umbrella drill, directed by Miss Christine Schenck, and six boys in a song. Songs and stories of childhood completed the entertainment. Hazel Landers Hummel singing the group of songs to the piano accompaniment of Ethel Troxell Thompson, and Eleanor Young Elliott giving readings.

The evening ended with a social hour during which the grownups chatted and the children enjoyed lively games. Home-made cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Rowland, Mrs. Prior and Mrs. Preston.

JOHN MUIR.
With Mrs. Chester Scott presiding over the afternoon session of the John Muir P. T. A. those assembled Tuesday afternoon had the pleasure of hearing Miss Helen Lamson, Mexican home teacher, tell of her experiences in welfare work among the local Mexicans.

In close connection with Miss Lamson's interesting talk was the musical program arranged by Miss Ruth Frothingham and presenting Miss Edoles Pereira in vocal numbers and Juan Pacheco, flutist. In singing "I Dream I Dwell in Marble Halls," Miss Pereira for the first time sang publicly, an English song. It was most enjoyable to her hearers as was her second song from a Spanish opera.

Juan Pacheco, a young lad who has traveled all over Mexico with his flute, charmed the hearts of all present as he played several selections to the piano accompaniment of Miss Frothingham.

During the business meeting a decision was reached to hold a candy sale and old-fashioned box social on the night of April 20, when Everett A. White will act as auctioneer. The meeting will be an open one with a prize for the member who brings the greatest number of guests.

During the informal social hour, records were played on the school's prized new phonograph and the chairman of the hostess committee, Mrs. N. A. Walker, assisted by the teachers, served lemon ice and wafers.

ROOSEVELT.
Thirty mothers were present Tuesday afternoon at the Roosevelt school P. T. A. meeting to hear an interesting program presided over by Mrs. J. U. Viaw, president.

S. J. Mustel, director of the high school orchestra and conducting orchestras in various grade schools, presented the Roosevelt organization in three highly appreciated numbers. J. A. Cranston, city superintendent, spoke on the state school budget.

Miss Marjorie Burns and Duncan Harnois gave a pleasing piano duet and a clever illustration of "the progress of time" was given by fourth grade pupils. Songs by fifth and sixth grade children also were featured, and a fairy tale told by Miss Louise Smith.

Miss Edith Cornell sang two charming songs, "The Old-Fashioned Town" and "The False Prophet" with Miss Ruth Armstrong at the piano, and Mrs. John Adams, editor of "The Mirror," spoke on "Art in Motion Pictures" and named several films excellent for children.

Washington Visitor Is Honor Guest at Birthday Dinner

Adding to the pleasures of a winter's stay in California for Mrs. Margaret Knapp of Everett, Wash., was a delightful little dinner given last night by Mr. and Mrs. Gay McDonour at their home, 1012 Orange avenue.

The evening was to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Knapp who is a sister of the host. Gathered around the friendly board with its attractive arrangements of pink roses, were Mr. and Mrs. McDonour, Mrs. Knapp, Miss Teresa Knapp, Miss Teresa McDonour and Mrs. J. Nolan.

Table appointments and many articles on the delicious dinner menu, were chosen for their color, to harmonize with the wealth of pink roses, which filled the rooms, and as the final course of the dinner was served, a birthday cake with its full complement of candles, also softly pink, was brought on.

At that time also, Mrs. Knapp was showered with gifts, not only from those present but from brothers and sisters elsewhere who were present in spirit if not in reality. The evening was a happy one devoted to music, conversation and needlework.

Mrs. Knapp has been spending the winter with her sister and daughter, Miss Teresa McDonour and Miss Teresa Knapp, and is so delighted with Southern California that it is the hope of her friends that she may be persuaded to remain here permanently.

G. A. R. Observes Appomattox Day

Appomattox day and all it means to our country, offered food for thought to all attending yesterday's observance of the anniversary by members of Sedgewick Post G. A. R. in their hall on East Fourth street.

At 2 o'clock, veterans of the Civil War in their blue coats and the little bronze button of the G. A. R. together with members of the auxiliary patriotic orders, congregated at the hall to hear a program arranged by Judge E. T. Langley.

The Rev. F. T. Porter, always a pleasing speaker, a favorite with patriotic orders and a veteran's son, was the principal speaker and kept his audience alternating between gasps of merriment and deeply solemn thoughts regarding the obligations entailed on present and future generations by that Union victory sealed at Appomattox Courthouse when General Lee surrendered his sword and the war was ended.

Violin selections by one of the comrades, songs by Mrs. A. E. Chapman with Mrs. Estelle Ludwig at the piano, dramatic readings by Mrs. P. T. Porter who gave "On the Rappahannock" and "Our Folks" and humorous readings by Eleanor Young Elliott were all featured on the program which was followed by a social hour with war-time reminiscences and community singing to add to the pleasure.

Card Party Is Pleasant Success

Twenty tables were employed for what at the K. O. C. hall last night when women of St. Joseph's congregation presented a successful card party.

Attractive prizes were given, with Mrs. Cotta and Mr. J. Murphy carrying off honors while consolation gifts were bestowed on Mrs. Rose Mordoff and Mr. Edgar Tucker. The parcels post proved a most pleasing feature with five young girls dressed in white with clover little yellow messenger caps, distributing the parcels. These contained very nice little gifts and their sale added a neat sum to the proceeds of the evening.

Sandwiches, cake, coffee and chocolate served by a bevy of girls and women of the church, brought the happy evening to a close.

The Young Ladies' Society is planning to present a card party and dance at the same place, Wednesday night, April 25 at 8 o'clock.

In the board of education building, One more open meeting will be held May 31 when election of officers and yearly reports will occupy the afternoon.

Mrs. Terry Stephenson, Mrs. W. W. Hoy, Mrs. George Weltbrecht and Mrs. J. A. Cranston were named as the nominating committee to select the official ballot.

May 24 was selected as the date for the annual teachers' picnic to be held at Orange county park.

TRANSPORTATION.
Mrs. E. M. Blake, president of the city P. T. A. federation, has requested that those desiring transportation to the all-day C. of M. and P. T. A. meeting at Garden Grove Saturday, or those having space in their cars to offer, communicate with her by calling 512-R3.

Smart Tea Introduces Charming Newcomer From Kentucky

One of the smart affairs of the week was the charmingly planned bridge tea with which Mrs. Harvey Gardner yesterday introduced to the younger social set, a newcomer to the city, Mrs. Tibbis C. Hillburn, recently from Kentucky.

Mrs. Gardner used pastel tints in all her decorative effects, achieving a delightful color harmony by the use of var-colored sweet peas and blue forget-me-nots with which the dainty tally cards and appointments of the tea table blended.

Four tables were employed for bridge and at the close of the exciting contests, Mrs. Ward Sutton holding high score, received a flower bowl in exquisite midday blue glazed pottery. A similar bowl only smaller, fell to the fortunate lot of Mrs. Arthur Shauer while to Mrs. Arvilla Ball was awarded the consolation gift of a pair of dainty frosted-glass violet baskets.

To Mrs. Hillburn was given the pretty guest prize of a quaint incense container.

Assisted by her sister, Miss Elsie Fluor and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Peter Fluor, Mrs. Gardner served a dainty collation of strawberry mousse, cake and coffee with nuts and confections in gay little pastel tinted baskets. During the tea hour, Miss Elsie Fluor gave a number of piano selections.

Mrs. Hillburn with her husband, recently came to Santa Ana to establish their home. They are located at 1806 Spurgeon street and are certain to prove a charming acquisition to the city's social circle.

Asked yesterday to greet her were Mesdames Arthur Shauer, Floyd Knight, Eugene Robinson, Harold Nelson, Felton Browning, J. G. Rose, Z. Bertrand West, Jr., L. Kennedy, C. R. Lane, Ward Sutton, C. V. Doty, E. T. McFadden, X. V. Ayers, Peter E. Fluor, Miss Arvilla Ball and Miss Elsie Fluor.

Pretty Wedding at St. Joseph's Church

Mr. and Mrs. Achille Descant were today receiving congratulations of their friends following the announcement of their marriage last week at St. Joseph's church with the Rev. Father Henry Eummelen officiating.

Mrs. Descant, formerly Miss Cecile Rivero, offered the third attractive bride in the Rivero family within a few months as her two young nieces, the Misses Ethel and Myrtle Rivero were each wedded late last summer, the former becoming the wife of Mr. Griffin and the later of W. A. Snoke.

Miss Cecile Rivero in her wedding gown of white crepe de chine with Irish point lace and pearl beads, wore the same exquisite heart-shaped veil which had adorned the two earlier brides, while her pearls had been worn by the brides of five weddings. Her flowers were roses and lilies of the valley in shower effect.

She entered the church on the arm of her nephew, Rafael Rivero by whom she was given in marriage. Mrs. Myrtle Snoke in a smart frock of blue satin as matron of honor, and Mrs. Griffin in her own bridal gown of white satin and Spanish lace attended the bride while Mr. Snoke was best man.

Beautiful wedding music was rendered and the vows were taken in the presence of the members of the immediate family. A wedding supper was served at the Rivero home, 1023 Custer street.

Mr. and Mrs. Descant, both prominent members of old French families of New Orleans, will make their home in Santa Ana.

Wedding Anniversary Is Recognized In Pleasant Manner

Celebrating the wedding thirty-seven years ago, in Long Prairie, Minnesota, of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Chandler, a group of warm friends gathered last night at the Chandler home, 301 North Garvey street, to take the "bride and groom" by surprise and to offer happy wishes and congratulations.

The little group met first at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Peters and when all were gathered, proceeded to the Chandler home where they accomplished their purpose of surprising their hosts.

A delightful evening of games followed and at a late hour, refreshments of ice cream and cake, thoughtfully provided by the guests, were served with hot coffee which Mrs. Chandler hastened to prepare.

Great clusters of red carnations were showered on the hosts by their guests who included Mr. and Mrs. John Holt, Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Cleveland, Mrs. E. J. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. William Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. George Peters, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Henderson and Mrs. James Cameron.

Royal Neighbors

One of the pleasant events of the week in lodge circles was the chicken dinner with which members of the Magnolia Camp, Royal Neighbors of America, entertained the Orange lodge at M. W. A. hall.

Fully 150 were present including Christiana Hamill, a state officer from Los Angeles who explained the "March to March" campaign in which it is hoped to gain 50,000 beneficiary members with California's quota named as 1,000, a number already exceeded.

Other guests present included Mrs. Wiedeman, the Orange orator, and officers and members of Fullerton lodge. Ten candidates were initiated with the secret work presented by the home staff headed by Lucian Sweet.

A program presenting Miss Mildred Marchant in whistling solos, tiny Muriel Bray and Florence Liggett in fancy dancing and Mrs. Floyd Knight in vocal solos, followed the delicious dinner served at tables gay with purple iris blossoms, ferns and pink roses.

The lodge colors of purple and white were carried out in the hall decorations by means of iris blooms and crepe paper garlands.

Ebell Club

The Santa Ana division of the Ebell University Study section met on Tuesday at the home of Miss Mabel McFadden. The fourth volume of Thomson's "Outline of Science" was ably and interestingly reviewed by Mrs. R. J. Blew, Mrs. Frances Frothingham, Mrs. Wells and Miss Mabel McFadden.

The two remaining study meetings of the year will be devoted to a review of J. H. Robinson's much-discussed volume "The Mind in the Making."

Delphian Society

The Beta class of the Delphian circle will meet tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. M. Gardner, 323 East Washington street. At the same time the Gamma group will meet at the home of Mrs. George S. Smith, 916 French street.

LABORATORY TO TEST HIGHWAY MATERIALS

Because Santa Ana is situated in the center of Southern California highway activities, George A. Schwabland, graduate chemical engineer and consulting engineer here and in San Diego county, has opened a laboratory, the first in Orange county, in the Hill building here for the testing of all pavement and street improvement materials, it was learned today.

"Los Angeles firms still consider that a laboratory here will be a failure," Schwabland said today at the Rossmore hotel, where he and Mrs. Schwabland were staying. "But I am convinced that a laboratory in Santa Ana is absolutely necessary and essential to the proper conduct of highway work here and in surrounding territory."

"Operation of the laboratory will be the means of saving many dollars, thousands of dollars, in fact, in city and county monies appropriated for highway work."

"Street materials must be tested every day. Heretofore the materials have been tested in Los Angeles. Delays of several days occur before the result of the test is known on the job here. During that delay, of course, much faulty pavement may be laid."

"Mr. Knox, the city engineer of Santa Ana, and Mr. McBride, the Orange county engineer, have said that they would co-operate with me in sending materials to the laboratory."

"My own work will keep the plant busy. Though equipped only for street and pavement materials now, the laboratory probably will be equipped for oil tests in the near future."

"My own work will keep the plant busy. Though equipped only for street and pavement materials now, the laboratory probably will be equipped for oil tests in the near future."

"My experience in highway engineering has been of a specialized nature. At present I am working with San Diego county to plan highway construction for which $600,000 recently was voted. I have been engaged in considerable consultation work in Orange county."

AUSTRALIAN GOLD SHOWS BIG INCREASE

SIDNEY, April 12.—New South Wales is the only one of the Australian states showing a decrease in the production of gold last year, according to Consul R. Wormuth, Sydney. The total Australian yield for 1922 was the highest since 1903. Owing to increased cost of production and to gradual working out of the mines of that state, reports on the gold yield of New South Wales for the full year 1922 the figures show a decrease of 5851 ounces fine from the 31,173 ounces fine produced in 1921, representing a falling off of 110,231 in values in the last 12 months.

EUROPE TANGLE IS INCREASED BY AVIATION

LONDON, April 12.—A new danger is creeping into the European muddle. The already complicated affairs of Europe may be further complicated by Anglo-French air rivalry.

The Anglo-French entente which has been one of the few steady factors in the European situation is being further strained by the tremendous air supremacy of France over Great Britain.

The British people are becoming aroused to the speed with which France is arming itself and the tower of military strength which it is building. With this knowledge comes a hint of fear, followed by clouds of suspicion.

What is France's Aim? Against whom is France arming? Lord Birkenhead asked this question. It is being re-echoed throughout the British Isles. In the house of lords, in commons and in the press there are rapidly growing indications that the British people are becoming aroused over French endeavors to create an impregnable air force.

Already charges are being bandied about that the Bonar Law government has been intimidated by this French aerial supremacy. George Lansbury, labor's M. P., declared the European policy is controlled by military strength.

England Remembers Raids These charges have not fallen upon unsympathetic ears. The population of Great Britain has not forgotten the German air raids during the war. Therefore, they become duly alarmed when they are told by official experts that the French air forces are strong enough to wipe out London and other great cities within a short time.

When the element of fear enters it is generally accompanied by suspicion. That is what is happening in the British Isles today. The people are being told that they have need to fear the preponderant supremacy of the French air forces and, with this fear, comes glimmerings of suspicion. These glimmerings of suspicion may grow to a proportion where they will have a telling effect upon European affairs.

Reluctant to Arm The British government is being urged on all sides to speed up aircraft production, yet it is reluctant to do so lest it will mean earmarking upon the old world armaments.

It seems that unless Premier Bonar Law acts the charge that his government represents a policy of "tranquillity gone mad" will continue to be made and the people will continue to fear and, with their fears, will come fresh suspicions, and where the suspicions will lead no man can tell.

The Anglo-French entente was badly shaken by the French invasion of the Ruhr. It is being joggled every day by knowledge of French air supremacy.

If the entente finally falls, what next? None can tell, but the outlook for the future will be darker than ever and even with the entente still technically alive, today the outlook is anything but rosy.

These are all pessimistic predictions but it takes a superoptimist to see any fair prospects in Europe today.

MINISTERS SEEK WORLD PEACE MOVE

LINCOLN, Neb., April 12.—Appeal to the pastors of the various churches of Nebraska was sent out by the ministers of the leading Protestant denominations of Lincoln, asking ministers to join in sending telegrams or letters to President Harding commending him for his action in attempting to get the United States to become a member of the world court. The letter says in part:

"It is doubtless apparent to all that the crying need of today is world peace, and a sound basis upon which it can be maintained. World peace is primarily a moral issue."

"Being profoundly convinced that the basis of permanent world peace can never be reached without the participation of the United States, we hail with delight the news that President Harding has asked the senate for permission for the United States government to become a member of the permanent court of international justice."

"We believe that every one, regardless of political party affiliations, should heartily support the President in his effort to have our government become a member of the world court."

"To this end we most earnestly invite you and all the other clergymen of the state to join with us in sending telegrams or letters to Mr. Harding, commending him for his action."

IOWA GEMS STOLEN.
CEDAR FALLS, Ia., April 12.—When the $2500 of jewels of Mrs. T. B. Carpenter, victim of a fatal auto accident, were awarded to Oklahoma City relatives, they put them in a safe there for safekeeping, but they were stolen that night.

ADDRESSES BY EX-PUBLISHER HERE PLEASE

Few speakers who have appeared here in recent years have left a more satisfactory impression than William Webster Ellsworth, former president of a large publishing firm in New York, who delivered two inspiring addresses at the high school here late yesterday and last night. Both lectures were well attended.

Basing his afternoon address upon "Moliere and His Times," Ellsworth, who illustrated his lecture with more than 100 colored slides, gave an intimate picture of the great Frenchman and his influence upon the people of all nations.

Calling Moliere "the Shakespeare of France," Ellsworth dwelt at length upon this master craftsman's plays, and gave some interesting descriptions of his company, stage experiences and home life.

Held Stage Lay Pulpit. "Moliere," said Ellsworth, "never forgot that the stage was a lay pulpit and that its end was not merely amusement, but the reformation of manners by means of amusing spectacles."

Ellsworth's evening lecture, sponsored by the Phi Beta Kappa, was based upon "The New Poetry," and concerned itself with the work of John Massfield, Walt Whitman, Rupert Brooke, Hilda Conklin, Amy Lowell, Robert Frost and others. The speaker read selections from Massfield, who he characterized as the greatest of the new poets.

Is True Modern. "Massfield is a true modern," said Ellsworth. "He has felt the pulse of the public and speaks a language common to all. The enjoyment of poetry is a personal matter, but the popularity of the new poetry began with the publication of the New Poetry Magazine in 1912. The man responsible for the earlier interest in new poetry was Walt Whitman. The words of the new poetry accomplish something. They serve to uplift the heart and inspire the reader to greater effort."

ORIENTAL IN CRASH CASE TO FACE JURY

N. Nishizu, Japanese, arrested on charges of operating an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor following an accident at Northam, in which Mrs. George Moreno was seriously injured several weeks ago, was held to answer in superior court by Justice J. B. Cox, before whom he underwent preliminary hearing today.

He was released on $500 bond. Photographs of the accident scene, taken by the husband of the injured woman, testimony of physicians, witnesses and Deputy Sheriff Jesse Elliott, featured the prosecution's case, which was conducted by Deputy District Attorney D. G. Wettlin.

TO DEPORT FIVE.
THIEF RIVER FALLS, Minn., April 12.—Leonard Newell, United States immigration official of Noyes, arrived in this city to await word as to disposition of a man and his wife and three adult sons, charged with violation of the United States immigration laws, and who were lodged in the county jail here. It is stated that the party drove across the line as far as Lancaster and there were taken in charge by Mr. Newell and brought here for safekeeping until disposition is made of their case. Seven others are in the Kittson county jail at Hallock on similar charges. The five detained here are Poles and entered Manitoba without proper authority and have been living for some time near Winnipeg.

LABOR SHORTAGE.
MITCHELL, S. D., April 12.—Plenty of jobs and no men. That's what T. S. Welch, manager of the chamber of commerce employment bureau is up against this spring. Welch has calls every day for from 20 to 30 men and the best he has been able to do so far is to find from five to ten men a day for the jobs.

PAINFUL RHEUMATIC SWELLINGS DISAPPEAR
Discoverer Tells Druggists Not To Take a Cent of Anyone's Money Unless Allenrhu Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pains and Twinges.

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called ALLENRHU, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers.

He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense ALLENRHU with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. C. S. Kelly Drug Store will supply you.—Adv.

Activity Rules In Oil Stocks As Market Starts On Upswing

NEW YORK, April 12.—Stocks rallied throughout the list today, demonstrating that whatever break occurred in the oil shares had represented a belated corrective movement in that group after the general market had practically completed its technical setback.

California Petroleum spurted 3-8 points from its low for the year and Pan-American, allowing for two stock dividends, nearly doubled in price. Maryland, which not many months ago was selling under thirty and was supposed to be on the point of suspending dividend payments, started on an upward swing which carried it within a fraction of 60. Coaden gained 12 points and Sinclair six.

The sharp upward revisions could not have been accomplished without a certain amount of speculative excesses which left the oil group vulnerable to professional attacks after the violence of the uprush had subsided. But it was evident from the start of today's session that the bear assault had been carried to extremes.

The market closed higher.

PAINT

Will Your Floors Stand Punishments?

It all depends on the varnish. Ordinary varnish loses its lustre. Water turns it white. Hot liquids make it peel. Heavy heels mar its beauty. But Pitcairn Waterspar Varnish is almost immune from damage resulting from household accidents. It is absolutely waterproof. It never turns white and it stands up under scuffing that would ruin ordinary varnish. We have Waterspar in eighteen attractive colored varnishes and enamels, as well as a full line of paints for your every requirement.

UNCLE SAM IS TIPPING OFF
ON FISHING

WASHINGTON, April 12.—“Gather round,” you fishermen, if you want to know where the fish really will bite this summer.

As the result of extensive restocking, the department of the interior makes the prediction that the streams and lakes of the national parks will be “fairly teeming” with trout and other fish this summer.

Secretary of the Interior Work loves to battle the mountain trout and offers the following fish dope for those who may want to spend their vacations where the fish are gamest:

Crater Lake National Park, Oregon—Fishing especially good for rainbow and cut-throat trout by fly casting or trolling from boats. Season from July to September 30.

Glacier National Park, Montana—The waters of the park abound in cut-throat, rainbow, eastern brook, flat, Dolly Varden and Mackinaw trout, whitefish and grayling, many reaching large size. The over-abundant grasshopper may be used successfully by those not skilled in the use of the fly. Government fish hatchery planted 1,867,700 fish in 1922. Season, June 15 to September 15.

Grand Canyon National Park, Arizona—Bass, crappie and catfish, and in several clear water tributaries of the Colorado river some trout have been planted with fair success. Season all the year.

Lafayette National Park, Maine—The park lakes are well stocked with lake trout and land-locked salmon ranging in weight from one to six pounds. Season opens about April 10.

Lassen Volcanic National Park, California—A variety of trout in lakes and streams makes fishing enjoyable sport. Season from June through September.

Mount Ranier National Park, Washington—On account of glacial origin, streams contain much sediment in summer and trout do not rise. In the spring and fall cut-throat, eastern brook, rainbow and Dolly Varden trout may be caught with bait and occasionally will take a fly. In 1922, 67,000 trout were planted in park waters.

Rocky Mountain National Park, Colorado—The streams and lakes are annually stocked with eastern brook, native (cut-throat) and rainbow trout from the state fish hatchery in the park. Season from May to November.

Sequoia National Park, California—Rainbow, steelhead, Loch Leven, cut-throat and golden are the varieties of trout found in the park, and park waters are annually restocked. Season from June to October.

Yosemite National Park, California—Few anglers during the summer and autumn use bait in fishing the lakes and streams of Yosemite, but depend upon the artificial fly. The California Royal Coachman almost always proves the best lure. Early in the season grasshoppers and salmon eggs are used for bait with success. Ten species of trout are found. Season from May to October.

DRAWING CAMP
INSTRUCTION
HELD VITAL

“Preparedness without militarism” is the keynote behind plans for citizens’ military training camps for 1,000 young Californians from all parts of the state, to be held July 26 to August 24 at Del Monte and Fort Winfield Scott, according to Col. M. B. Wellington, of this city, who has given the movement his unqualified endorsement.

“Here is an excellent opportunity for a dozen or more young men of Orange county to get some invaluable experience,” said Col. Wellington today.

Aid National Defense “Postmasters, national guard officers, the press of the state, officers of the organized reserve, commercial and civic organizations and many fraternal organizations are aiding materially in support of the national defense program.”

“Organizations such as the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and similar patriotic bodies composed of men who have ‘been there and know’ what readiness for national defense means, are enthusiastic in support of the movement.”

“This is particularly applicable to young high school pupils and other Orange county youths who wish to profit by government experience under trained officers. No Expense.”

“The selected young men who attend the camps will have a month’s vacation at no expense to themselves, because the war department provides everything needed for their training, comfort, entertainment and transportation.”

“Young men between the ages of 17 and 24 will gain an insight into military training, but no effort will be made to interest them in service further than attendance at the camps. Enrollment will entail absolutely no obligation on their part for future military service.”

Applicants desiring to enroll for this year’s camps, or young men wanting information concerning them, should get in touch with Col. Wellington, of the law firm of Bishop and Wellington, telephone 197.

The Tale of Two Roofs

Roofs may not talk but time will tell. And so the tale of these two roofs was told by “Time.”

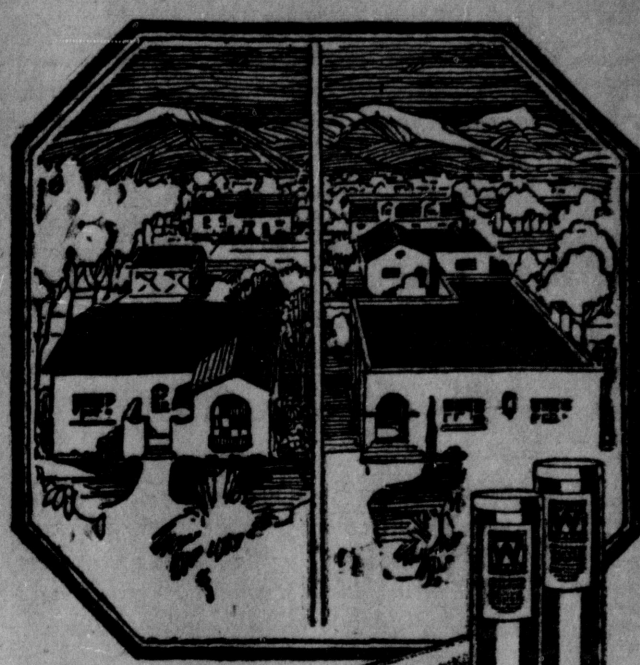

Both were laid at the same time—some years ago. One was a “Weaver” Roof—the other wasn’t. They both cost approximately the same. When they were first laid you couldn’t tell which was which. They looked alike. And they kept on looking alike for a year or two. But Mr. Weatherman sent torrents of rain and then burning sunshine—and then high winds—and he kept this up year after year. Ultimately the one roof had to be replaced, while the other was still good.

It wasn’t the “Weaver” Roof that was replaced, because “Weaver” Roofing is superior.

It isn’t a matter of chance that “Weaver” Roofing outwears other roofing. It is because of the genuine, honest quality of the materials used in it—and the thoroughness of “Weaver” processing.

To insure permanent roof satisfaction, tell your architect or contractor to specify “Weaver” Roofing.

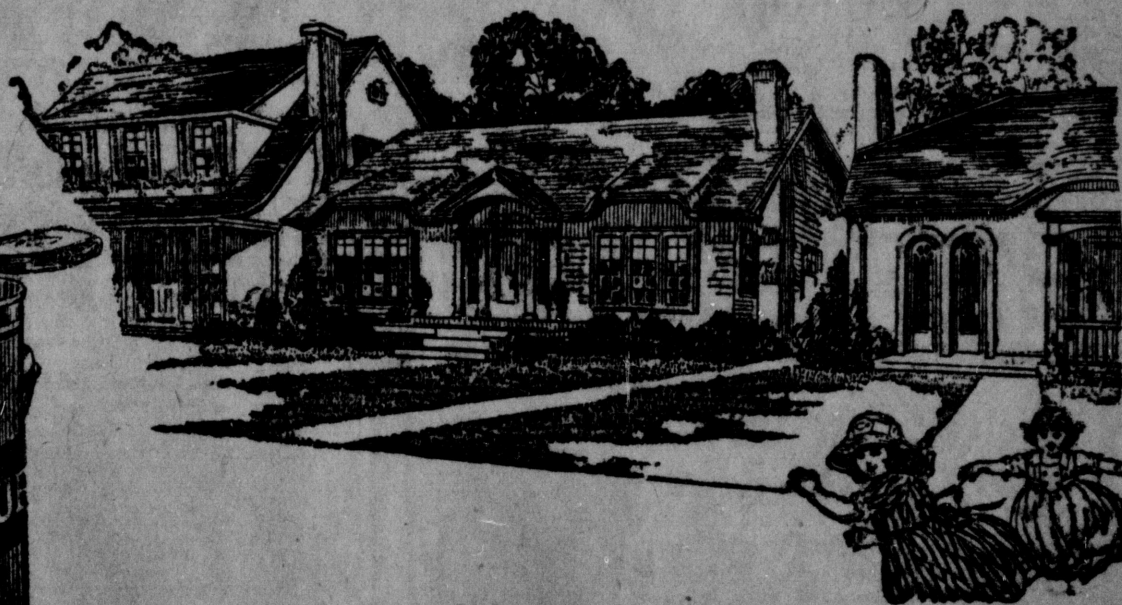

Any Qualified Roofing Contractor Can Lay Weaver Roofing.

A Painted Neighborhood

YOU are proud of your neighborhood. You delight in having your friends see your home and those that surround it. Everytime you come up the street, you thrill with pride that you are able to bring up your family in such pleasant surroundings. The homes may not be costly, but they are well kept. In other words, they’re painted.

Just stop and picture those same houses run down for lack of paint—drab, shabby, weather-beaten—and you’ll realize what it means to you to live in a well-painted neighborhood. You not only enjoy it, but your children, because of this daily association, are being taught the beauty of harmonious colors.

BASS-HUETER

give to your home that well-kept appearance every one admires. You can’t buy better paint or varnish than that which bears the Bass-Hueter label, representing over sixty years of progress in paint making. These products are made on the Pacific Coast and successfully meet the climatic conditions peculiar to the West.

What you pay for the paint is but a small part of the finished work. It costs just as much to have cheap paint put on, and Bass-Hueter Paint, because it is made of the best materials, will wear twice as long as the average paint. Therefore we suggest that when you repaint your house, or have the interior redecorated, you specify Bass-Hueter products. On the small jobs that you do yourself, you will also find it economy to use a Bass-Hueter product, choosing the one made especially for the work you have to do.

You will be delighted with your results if you follow carefully the directions given on each can.

Our booklet “Paint Facts” or “The Way to Beautiful Homes” will be mailed on request. Write for it, asking for any advice you wish on your painting problems.

THREE WAYS

IN WHICH BEST PAINT SAVES YOU MONEY

First—It's the cost of the "paint on the property" and not merely the cost per gallon that counts. The best paint spreads easily, saving labor cost. It covers more area per gallon than "cheap paint."

Second—You want the paint to last. The best paint serves five or more years longer than "cheap paint." Therefore the best paint costs less on a "per year" basis.

Third—The reason for the economy of the best paint lies in the fact that it is scientific in formula and preparation. We have had 74 years experience in making quality Paint products.

GREAT INDIAN TOWN STOOD NEAR LAGUNA SAYS EXPERT

That a great Indian town stood on the bluffs and in the canyon bottom north of Abalone Point, two miles from Laguna Beach, was declared by George G. Heye, of New York, one of the foremost American authorities on the prehistoric Indian, following a visit to Laguna Beach this week, it was learned today.

Heye expects to return to Laguna Beach next summer for the purpose of thoroughly exploring the coast from Newport bay to Serra, seeking evidences of ancient Indian life.

Extensive investigations have been made under Heye's instructions in various portions of the United States. Ten years ago, for the purpose of carrying on explorations and investigations, Heye endowed the George G. Heye Foundation for the Study of the Prehistoric Indian. Since then scores of publications have been gotten out by the institution, and relics of all kinds have been gathered into the Heye museum.

Visita Islands. "San Miguel and San Nicholas Islands are the finest fields for Indian investigation that we have ever found," said Heye. "The ancient Indian had the habit of burying ornaments and implements with the body."

"The San Clemente Indians, as we have found, had the habit of smashing the implement. Sometimes we found half of a stone bowl in one grave and the other half in another grave. The San Miguel and San Nicholas Indians, however, left the ornaments and implements whole. We found this to be true, that the finest beadwork was in the graves of children."

Heye said that more than 1,000 Indian graves had been excavated in the exploration in the islands, and that in every instance, with one exception, the body had been buried with the body doubled up.

"The reason why the preservation of the skeletons has been remarkable in the islands," said Heye, "was that the bodies were buried in dry sand, which quickly drained off in case of rain."

Within a few days, a crew of men working under Ralph Glidden, who has superintended most of the California excavations that have been done for the Heye Foundation, will begin digging into an Indian mound that has been found on the site of the old Potter hotel at Santa Barbara.

"It is in these mounds," said Heye, "that we make our best finds."

On the mainland of California we have not discovered a single extensive burying mound south of Santa Barbara. There may be mounds not yet located, but the chances are their absence is due to the habit of cremation. Indians in the country back of San Diego were in the habit of burning their dead. A few years ago, I made an investigation into this trait. The charred remains were placed in an urn and buried."

Report at Library. Heye's report on his investigations, published by the Foundation, is in the Santa Ana Library.

When he was shown a picture of the old Indian rock that is situated on a ridge of Bell canyon, Heye declared himself to be deeply interested.

This rock is about six feet long and four feet across. On a flat surface are dim tracings of an Indian maze and other drawings, cut into the stone.

"This seems to me to be the most remarkable rock of its kind in this part of the state," said Heye. "I have never heard of another having been found so far West. I hope to have the opportunity to see this rock during my stay at Laguna Beach next summer."

DOCTOR TELLS OF CURE FOR DIABETES

(By United Press Leased Wire) LOS ANGELES, April 12.—Science has at last discovered an almost sure cure for dread diabetes—formerly regarded, except in rare cases, an incurable disease.

Attention was drawn to the discovery when Frank A. Vanderlip, New York banker, announced, following his recent trip here, that he had found in the insulin treatment, practiced by physicians here, a cure for diabetes. He declared he had dropped twenty years from his age.

The insulin treatment was explained at a recent meeting of the California Medical association at Long Beach, Calif., by Dr. W. R. Sansum of Santa Barbara, Calif., who has devoted the past two years no, Kings, Tulare, Kern, Santa Barbara, Ventura, Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside, with a total population of over a million and a half.

"Santa Ana, Los Angeles and over 250 other cities, towns and intervening rural communities will receive an ample supply of electric energy from this titanic source of power to meet all their demands for house and street lighting, agricultural development and for factories for some time to come."

"The power which will be derived from this new electric giant of the West will be sufficient to bring under cultivation 130,000 acres of semi-arid agricultural land and to propel 600 factories, which, according to accepted statistics, will give employment to 40,000 workers."

Waters for irrigation. "With the completion of the great Florence Lake tunnel, over thirteen miles in length, the longest tunnel in the west, the great watersheds which lie between the Kaiser Range and the Minaret Range in the High Sierras, having an area about the size of the Hawaiian Islands, will be tapped and their water flow from the melting snows will reach the generators of this new plant at a fall from Mount Hilgard, the highest summit, a drop of over eleven thousand feet or more than two miles of perpendicular drop. After they have passed through the turbines of this plant, they will return undiminished into the San Joaquin River in an even flow to irrigate the lands of the valley beneath, flood damage and waste of water being completely eliminated."

"The building of the superstructure, which was commenced today, is the final step in two years of preliminary work, which required cutting a road from the face of the precipice above the San Joaquin River, which was one of the most daring pieces of construction work of the period; the boring of six miles of tunnel; the construction of a new dam across the San Joaquin River and the hauling of 82,000 tons of material for building the foundations and base for the powerhouse which will be of structural steel and concrete and along the most improved lines of modern construction. This powerhouse will be built in record time, the actual construction work not to consume over 141 days. George C. Ward, vice president in charge of construction, this morning stood on the brink of the canyon overlooking the new powerhouse, where the pressure mains drop the water at a head of 855 feet on the turbines, and watched the first girder of the super-structure swung into place by the great electric crane. In his telephone message to me today, Mr. Ballard said he had just received a wire from Mr. Ward, which read: "We will bring in the biggest powerhouse in the West in about the time that any other powerhouse was ever constructed."

to the development of the diabetic serum, and has effected many cures.

Insulin, he said, is taken from the pancreas of animals. It furnishes the necessary elements of sugar in the blood which diabetics lack. It effects a complete cure in many cases and, in others, permits the patient to return to a normal state as long as he keeps taking it. The process was first developed by Dr. F. G. Banting of the University of Toronto.

The entire pancreas output of one large Los Angeles slaughterhouse is used by Dr. Sansum in his experiments, making the cure an expensive one at the present time.

CLAIMS PHOTOS PROVE THEORY OF EINSTEIN

(By United Press Leased Wire)

SAN JOSE, Calif., April 12.—The Einstein theory of relativity has withstood the rigorous astronomical and mathematical test made of it several months ago by the Crocker expedition to Australia and Tahiti, Dr. W. W. Campbell, chief of Liko observatory and president-elect of the University of California announced.

A series of photographic plates taken at Walla Beach, Australia during the solar eclipse of September 21, 1922, and a similar series taken at Tahiti at night have been compared and the results prove favorable to the accuracy of the Einstein theory, Dr. Campbell said.

These plates were said to show groups of stars in the vicinity of the sun and were compared to show the displacement of their rays in passing through the sun's gravitational field.

Dr. Einstein, according to Dr. Campbell's announcement, predicted that if his theory were correct this deflection would be through one and three-quarters seconds of an arc.

The calculations made from five sets of plates, show a deflection averaging 1.74 seconds of an arc.

"The agreement is as close as the most ardent proponent of the theory could hope for," declared Dr. Campbell.

He said the results are so satisfactory that his observatory will not repeat the observation.

FLORIDA MAN KNOWS 600 VARIETIES FISH

MIAMI, Fla., April 12.—There are 600 known varieties of fish life in the waters of Florida. Capt. Charley Thompson knows them all. He has caught most of them.

That about sizes up one of the most famous men in the world, of whom the world at large hears little, as such things go.

It was Captain Thompson who some five or six years ago caught the great "what is it?" that nobody has since been able to identify. This monster of the deep weighed about 40,000 pounds and had a mouth and throat you could throw a barrel down. His hide was inches thick, and though he was half dead when Thompson came upon him, it took three days to capture him.

this opportunity of expansion and development only through united effort. Community upbuilding is a problem parallel to that of a business enterprise.

Team Work Counts. As Kipling phrased it in the days of the Great War, when he was appealing for organized effort:

"It ain't the individuals nor the army as a whole, but the everlasting team work of every blooming soul!"

We have the advantage in that this community is a "going concern" and has in its Chamber of Commerce the machinery for the use of the team work. The Chamber of Commerce is the logical instrument for the expression of coordinated effort that will enable us to hold a position in the forefront of progressive communities.

But the Chamber of Commerce can so function only when it has the support of all groups. Your active help may be a determining factor in the history that is now being made for future generations to read.

SUBMITS TO KNIFE
MARE ISLAND, Cal., April 12.—C. F. Johnson, seaman, known also as Patrick O'Reilly, who since St. Patrick's Day, when he was seized with appendicitis, had refused permission to naval doctors for an operation to save his life, is now convalescing following an operation at the naval hospital here. Johnson was removed from the naval training station hospital at Goat Island. Asked if Johnson had finally given his consent, an executive officer at the hospital said: "I know of no trouble regarding the case. Johnson is doing nicely."

COUNTY HARBOR CHAMBER IS FORMED

NEWPORT BEACH, April 12.—With an initial membership of several hundred Orange county business men and a treasury of over $1000 the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce came into being here last night at a meeting held in a local theater building.

Old residents in Newport said today that a more enthusiastic meeting more promising of fruitful results for the county's harbor had never been held.

One of the speakers was Malcolm Fraser, secretary of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, who declared that, with the completion of the great government Boulder dam project with the resultant cultivation of thousands of new acres, the stream of commerce would begin to flow more and more through Newport harbor as well as through San Diego and San Pedro. He thought that the Orange county port had a duty to perform in letting this produce get to the world by means of the shortest possible route.

The first membership in the new chamber, said to be the only harbor chamber in the United States, was auctioned off to the First National Bank of Newport at $250. Mrs. Elizabeth Dobbs of Costa Mesa made Lew Wallace step lively to secure the coveted harbor.

Mayor J. J. Schnitzer of Newport outlined the proposal of the city to pay the salary of a secretary to function in offices in this city. The proposal was approved in general.

Before the next meeting a ballot with names of candidates for the board of directors, together with an application for membership will be sent to each registered voter in Newport Beach, Costa Mesa and Balboa and after the election the next meeting will be called.

Last night Dr. C. G. Huston of Costa Mesa acted as temporary chairman. It is expected that he will be one of the directors elected as he has been an active booster for the harbor project.

It was impressed upon those attending the meeting that to attract the serious attention of congress in the way of bigger appropriations for this harbor that shipping must actually begin to move in and out of this port.

Co-operation from all Orange county towns was promised and it was the consensus of opinion that the movement started was one which would spell a greater success for the establishment of Newport harbor as a world shipping point.

EVANGELIST TO OPEN SERIES OF MEETS

With a truck load of trunks, containing a wide variety of musical instruments, Evangelist John H. LeGrand and the "Musical Howes" arrived here today and immediately began preparations for opening a series of revival meetings in the large tent which has been erected at the corner of Third and Birch streets.

The first meeting of this series will open tonight, at 7 o'clock. The meetings will continue each night indefinitely.

The evangelistic company is here under the auspices of the First Christian church. Evangelist LeGrand and the "Musical Howes" are said to be one of the most famous evangelistic teams working in America. Newspapers in cities where they have worked contain most favorable comment, crediting the Rev. John H. LeGrand with having brought the philosophy of religion down to a plain, common sense basis.

The "Musical Howes" were unpacking today a large number of conventional musical instruments, and a great many of extraordinary design.

Among these instruments are the violin, banjo, musical combs, musical glasses, octarina, aluminum harp, metal bamboos, marimba and marimbaphone.

These, it is said, are played in a highly entertaining manner by both Mr. and Mrs. Howe.

Yesterday and today a large force of workmen has been busy with the construction of a platform and seats in the large tent.

The place will be heated when necessary and every effort made to have the audiences as comfortable as possible. The subject of the first sermon tonight will be "Lost Opportunities."

Word from the various churches over the county indicates that a delegation will be present at the opening meeting tonight from virtually every town in Orange county.

Approximately one hundred singers have pledged themselves to the choir during the meetings.

All sessions are open to the public.

CITIZENSHIP COURSE URGED FOR SCHOOLS

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The movement to compel all United States public schools, aided or supported by public money to teach American citizenship as part of the regular curriculum, has received decided impetus from recent action of the American Bar association.

This body, composed of the most eminent lawyers and jurists of the nation, has solicited the assistance of the General Federation of Women's Clubs for the enactment of a law compelling every educational institution receiving financial help from the public treasuries to include in its curriculum a course of citizenship.

The course would require school children, among other things, to learn the constitution of the United States and the various state constitutions as well. It also would include the study of American institutions and ideals.

Willful neglect or failure on the part of any public school superintendent, principal, or teacher, or other officer of normal schools or colleges to observe and carry out these requirements would, under the proposed law, be deemed sufficient cause for dismissal.

PARENT-TEACHERS MEET

PLAYS PART OF LUDGATE IN COMEDY

Harry H. Brackett, who will appear in the Santa Ana Community Players' association production of "Good Gracious Annabelle" to be produced at the Temple theater here four nights beginning Monday night, is cast as James Ludgate and is said to possess the prime requisite of an actor as pointed out by Clarence Stratton in a chapter of his book, "Casting a Community Play."

Ernest Crozier Phillips, director of the Players here, today pointed out that Stratton said: "If he be a wise director he will banish temperament unless it is over-shadowed by matchless ability; choosing rather, mobility, dependableness, patience, intelligence, presence, common sense, and loyalty."

"Before coming to California," Phillips continued, "Brackett was in professional vaudeville for one season, making a tour of the Middle West. Since coming to Santa Ana, he has allied himself with the Players and has proven himself invaluable to the organization."

"He will be remembered as Thomas Hayden in the production of 'Seven Keys to Baldpate.' In this character of the pompous railroad president, and also in that of Yip Sney Gons, 'the purveyor of hearts,' in the more recent production of 'The Yellow Jacket,' he was an outstanding success."

"If you are in line for a good laugh and an evening of genuine relaxation, see 'Good Gracious Annabelle.'"

What Is Your Bid For This Eureka?

McFadden's is receiving sealed bids on the Eureka, and the highest bidder will be sold this remarkable time and labor-saving electrical necessity a week from today—next Thursday, at whatever price he or she sets.

You may bid whatever you like. If you think 75c or $10 is the right price, bid that.

At $55 the Eureka is unquestionably one of the best buys among vacuum cleaners, and this big bidding contest is not for the purpose of determining what the selling price should be. The selling price of the Eureka vacuum cleaner is never what it should be, anyway. How can electrical engineers and cost accountants put a price on time, happiness and cleaner homes? On carpets, rugs, mattresses, pillows, portieres and all other places where dust and dirt are present, the effect of its suction is complete cleanliness. A free trial costs you nothing.

*Now you can wash
in the KITCHEN
if you like —*

STUDY this arrangement plan for a modern kitchen—it was laid out by experts.

Note that it provides a space for the electric washing machine on the left of the sink.

This is ample for the Laun-Dry-Ette because with this machine no extra tubs (stationary or portable) are required. Water is supplied to the Laun-Dry-Ette from special faucets over the Laun-Dry-Ette or from hose attached to faucets over the sink, and is drained to the sink or through a regular waste pipe similar to refrigerator drain.

Note: The washing, rinsing and bluing are all done in the Laun-Dry-Ette and as you have no wringer you can do a wash in very little space.

This famous wringerless washing machine has improved washing methods greatly.

Instead of feeding the clothes to a wringer which smashes and pulls off buttons, fasteners, etc., you turn a switch and the Laun-Dry-Ette whirled a whole tubful wringer dry in one minute without a wringer—and you never put your hands into the water.

GUSHER REPORT FOUND TO BE UNFOUNDED

Reports that the Down East company had brought in a well on the Sherman Buck property south and west of Wintersburg today threw property owners in that district into a fever of excitement, and many visioned uncovering on their property vast deposits of "black gold."

The story reached Santa Ana early today when it was reported that "the well was flowing 1500 barrels."

Investigations disclosed that the company was forcing oil into the hole in an effort to release drilling equipment that had become lodged. Neighbors saw the oil flowing out of the well and jumped at the conclusion that a new oil field had been discovered, it was said.

"Nothing to the report that oil has been found on our property at Wintersburg," said Mrs. Sherman Buck. "The company, by forcing oil into the well, is attempting to release a part of the drill stuck in the hole. The report probably gained circulation when someone, not familiar with the operations, noticed the oil flowing and jumped to the conclusion that a gusher had been uncovered."

"The well is down about 2800 feet and indications were very favorable when drilling operations had to be suspended because of the mishap to the drill."

UNSHACKLED LABOR IS HOPE OF DAVIS

WARREN, Ohio, April 12.—"We are approaching the day when labor shall be really free, when industry shall be unshackled," Secretary of Labor James J. Davis told his fellow members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of America, assembled here in national convention.

Employers and workers everywhere, Secretary Davis said, are learning that they stand no longer in the relation of master and servant, but that they are "co-workers, partners, whose joint and mutual interests march side by side. They are coming to know that the prosperity of industry depends upon production, and that industrial warfare is the greatest enemy of production."

Condemning his fellow unionists to be "slow to use the strike weapon," Davis said:

"I am not one of those who believe you can force industrial peace into being by legal enactment," adding that the principle of compulsory arbitration did not appeal to him, and that if information came to him which "shows that where ever it has been tried, it is proved a failure."

The remedy, it was pointed out, "lies not in governmental interference between the employer and the employee, but in direct negotiation and mutual understanding."

RARE VIOLIN SELLS FOR SMALL FORTUNE

PARIS, April 12.—A violin was sold for 1,402,350,000 marks, or $30,000. FAIR BOARD OFFICE OPEN FOR BUSINESS

Business of the 1923 Orange county fair board, recently appointed by J. A. Smiley, president of the Orange county farm bureau, and of which he is president, was being done today in an office at the farm bureau headquarters here.

R. D. Flaherty, former secretary manager of the bureau and now editor of the farm bureau's monthly publication, The Farm Bureau News, has taken office space in the North Main street building as manager of the county fair.

The fair board, composed of seven Orange county citizens, will not meet again for thirty days, Flaherty said.

SOVIET RAPIDLY DEVELOPING AIR FORCE

LONDON, April 12.—While the rest of Europe is engaged in the sharpest rivalry over aviation development, Soviet Russia is not standing idle.

Reports from Moscow indicate that the Soviet government is making rapid strides in the development of its aviation service, both military and commercial.

An active propaganda for development of aviation is being carried on by Izvestia, a semi-official newspaper. Izvestia points out to the Russian people that "when Russia is attacked" the enemies will come by air long before they attack by land or by sea, and Russia must be prepared to resist intensive air raids.

Statistics indicate that France leads the rest of Europe in aerial development, but Russia is awakening, and—with her vast resource and with the expert advice of Germans, who are reported to be interested in Russian factories—within the next two years she will become a great air power, Reports reaching London indicate that German aviation experts who have found themselves limited by the terms of the peace treaty in the development of their science in their own country, are actively conducting experiments in Russia and are having astonishing results. Tales of a folding seaplane which will "knockdown" and carry in a small tube, come out of Russia, and this is said to be the work of German experts.

Perhaps Russia has the only military aviator of the female sex in the whole wide world. At the Egorevsky aerodrome when the garrisons are paraded, there marches in the front rank a diminutive woman, with her hair cropped short and wearing the regular uniform of the Russian aviator. This is Nina Gordevich—a flight commander. She is reported to be one of the world's most daring aviators, and her rise to the position of flight commander is a tribute to her skill in the air.

In order to increase interest in aviation the Soviet government is conducting a great campaign and sending lecturers through the provinces.

EMOTION CHEMICAL PROFESSOR CLAIMS; HOPE FOR LOVESICK

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 12.—When a young, or for that matter, an elderly chap, looks into a fair lady's eyes and feels a funny sensation which he believes is "souful emotion" he is wrong. What he is experiencing is a chemical reaction.

This declaration of "chemical reaction" being the real primary and ultimate source of all these "divine emotions" was made by Dr. Joseph S. Hughes, professor of chemistry at the Kansas Agricultural college in an address here.

Any emotion, in fact, he said, such as love, hate, jealousy, etc., are simply caused by certain secretions in certain glands.

Experiments carried on by Dr. Hughes tend to verify this, he said. Chemical compounds are also being experimented with by which he can change a person's nature.

"By injecting a chemical compound to counteract the gland secretions and chemical formations formed by certain glands, I can change your whole nature," said Dr. Hughes.

In other words, in the future, when a young lad is helplessly prone to cast moon calf eyes on a young lass, and wants to regain his equilibrium, why just send him to a chemist and inject a compound.

GIRL CASE MOVIE MAN FREE ON BAIL

Jim Alamo, alias James S. Davis, motion picture actor, arrested several weeks ago on three felony charges involving a Santa Ana girl, was free today under $6,000 bail provided by his Los Angeles employers.

Alamo was arrested on the complaint of the girl's father, after he was said to have induced her to leave her home here to live with him. When his wife attempted to procure bail, which was set at $2,000 on the first charge, he was rearrested on a second and more serious warrant. Later, a third charge was preferred, bringing the total bail to $6,000.

NEW RULES FOR VISITORS TO JAIL TOLD

All conversations between visitors and prisoners at the Orange county jail must be conducted in English.

This was one of a series of new regulations announced today by Sheriff Sam Jernigan.

Placing added restrictions, and cutting the visiting days in half, Jernigan had posted the notices at the jail door today.

Permits to visit may be procured at the sheriff's office between 9 a. m. and 12 p. m. Saturdays; visitors may enter the jail, equipped with a permit, from 9 to 11 a. m. and from 2 to 3 p. m. on that day.

Formerly, it was said, permits could be procured at any time from 9 to 11 a. m. and from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m. Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Persons who cannot speak English must provide an interpreter satisfactory to the jailer, the instructions provided.

Nothing but clothing may be brought to prisoners, Jernigan stated. Food, fruit and tobacco, which were formerly allowed, must be purchased through the jailer, he said.

All felony prisoners must be handcuffed when they are transferred between the jail and the courts, the sheriff instructed his men.

TIGHTEN STATE DRY LAWS IS PLEAMADE

WASHINGTON, April 12.—A system of state prohibition enforcement codes so far reaching and drastic as to effectually close all loopholes to liquor law violation is to be the goal of federal authorities at the conference of governors, which President Harding will convene in Washington within a few weeks, International News Service learned today.

Comprehensive plans are being made by officials of the federal prohibition unit, under the direction of Commissioner Roy Haynes, whereby the governors of the various states will be presented with a concrete proposal for the unification of all state enforcement codes.

The governors under present plans, will be urged to prepare recommendations for their respective legislative assemblies proposing inclusion in their codes—were not already written—certain provisions urged by the prohibition enforcement authorities, it was learned. These provisions would provide for:

1.—Making the buyer of bootleg liquor equally guilty with the seller.

2.—A drastic and far-reaching "padlock" provision enabling the closing of places where violations have occurred.

3.—Penalties for the counterfeiting of permits and labels.

4.—Penalties for destroying evidence.

Officials Are Target

5.—A law for the removal of state officials for dereliction, violations or connivance with conspiracy.

6.—Making it a felony to possess apparatus for the manufacture of home brew.

7.—A law forbidding the advertisement of materials or apparatus for distilling liquor.

8.—Making it a penitentiary nuisance, rather than merely levying fines, or, as an alternative, making a second-time offender liable to prison.

9.—Making it a penitentiary offense for the carrying of a gun or other weapon by a liquor violator.

Should the states conform their codes to include these features, prohibition officials believe "one of the greatest strides ever taken in the direction of absolute enforcement of the eighteenth amendment would result."

Many of the proposed provisions already are incorporated in certain of the state codes, but it is hoped that the governors may be prevailed upon to bring about absolute unity of purpose among the state laws.

ELSINORE COUNTRY CLUB WORK RUSHED

Improvement of its country property at Lake Elsinore by the Southern California Athletic and Country club has begun, according to information received here today. A big pier with dancing pavilion, pleasure boats and a stable of horses will be ready for use of club members within a month, it was said.

The pier, which will be 150 feet square, is being built on the town side of the lake, and will have not only a large pavilion with refreshment stand, for dances and picnic parties, but will serve as the temporary landing wharf for two forty-passenger pleasure boats which are under construction, as is also a fleet of smaller pleasure craft. The large boats are of latest type and will have luxuriously upholstered seats and canopy top. They will be used for both daylight and evening parties, and also make scheduled trips around the lake, which has a sixteen-mile shoreline.

A jazz orchestra has been engaged for the season for the pavilion, which will be open daily afternoon and evening. For those who desire the pleasures of the many mountain trails surrounding the lake, on the 14,000 acres owned or under lease by the club, a score of saddle horses and burros will be in service at all hours.

SUITOR OFFERS TO MAKE GOOD GIRL'S 200 BAD CHECKS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—Declaring his intention of marrying the girl and asserting his belief that she was a victim of circumstances rather than a deliberate swindler, L. C. Price of Oakland appeared at the Oakland police station today with an offer to make good over 200 fictitious checks which Miss Mary Turner, pretty Atlanta, Ga., girl, is alleged to have passed on San Francisco and Oakland merchants during the last year.

The girl was arrested while in the alleged act of charging merchandise to another woman's account.

QUAIL IS SONG BIRD

LANSING, Mich., April 12.—The house has passed a bill classifying quail as song birds. Conservation Commissioner John Baird expressed the belief no added protection would be given quail by the new classification because, as song birds, it would be possible to train dogs upon them.

What Is It

What It Does

How It Does It

A brief examination of the science which is saving the lives and relieving the suffering of thousands. A Chiropractic Adjustment is a thrust delivered to the spine for the purpose of adjusting displaced vertebrae into normal position, thereby freeing the nerves that are pressed upon. A perfect system of nerves means perfect health. All nerves originate in the brain, converging at its base, forming the Spinal Cord. The Cord passes downward through the Canal formed by the 24 vertebrae or Spine. From the Cord thirty-one pairs of Nerve Trunks are given off, between the vertebrae. Each of these nerve trunks divides into about two million branches, which have their endings in the Skin, Muscles and the various organs all over the body. Every part of your body the size of a pin point has its nerve supply. Can you imagine the effect if one of the thirty-one Main Nerve Trunks was pressed upon at the opening where it left the Spine? The effect would be disease at the ending of that nerve or its branches. Suppose that nerve ended at the Stomach, then Stomach trouble is the effect. The same would apply to any other organ of the body, the cause of the trouble being the pressure at the Spine. Chiropractic removes this pressure and Nature sends her forces over the Nerves and the affected part becomes well.

RECOVERY—The rapidity with which recovery often occurs as a result of expert Chiropractic Adjustments seems to those without experience almost incredible. The time is coming when everybody will have their Spine Adjusted, thereby adding years to their lives and life to their years. We assure you there are no embarrassing examinations, as our examinations are all made from the Spine. Don't say it can't be done. That's what people said about the Telephone, Wireless Telegraphy, Airships, etc. Investigate. If you will call at our office we will be glad to make an analysis of your Spine, stating conditions as we find them, and give you an Honest, Unbiased and Unprejudiced opinion as to the results you might expect from Chiropractic Adjustments. There will be no charge for this service and we invite you to come.

- 1—Slight Subluxations at this point may cause so-called headaches, eye diseases, deafness, epilepsy, vertigo, insomnia, wry neck, facial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, etc.
- 2—A slight subluxation of the vertebrae in this part of the spine may be the cause of so-called throat trouble, neuralgia, pain in the shoulders and arms, goiter, nervous prostration, la grippe, dizziness, bleeding from nose, disorder of gums, catarrh, etc.
- 3—The arrow marked No. 3 locates the part of the spine where subluxations may cause so-called bronchitis, felons, pain between the shoulder blades, rheumatism of the arms and shoulders, hay fever, writers' cramps, etc.
- 4—A vertebrae subluxation at this point may cause so-called nervousness, heart disease, asthma, pneumonia, tuberculosis, difficult breathing, other lung troubles, etc.
- 5—Stomach and Liver troubles, enlargement of the spleen, pleurisy and a score of other troubles, so-called, may be caused by subluxations in this part of the spine, sometimes so light as to remain unnoticed by others except the trained Chiropractor.
- 6—Here may be the cause of so-called gall stones, dyspepsia of upper bowels, fevers, shingles, hicough, worms, etc.
- 7—Bright's disease, diabetes, floating kidney, skin disease, boils, eruptions and other diseases, so-called, may be caused by nerves being pinched in the spinal openings at this point.
- 8—Regulations of such troubles as so-called appendicitis, peritonitis, lumbago, etc., follow Chiropractic adjustments at this point.
- 9—Why have so-called constipation, rectal troubles, sciatica, etc., when Chiropractic adjustments at this part of the spine will remove the cause?
- 10—A slight slippage of one or both innominate bones will likewise produce so-called sciatica, together with many "diseases" of pelvis and lower extremities.

When I speak of a vertebrae being subluxated or displaced, I refer to its being separated more or less from the one above or below. Ill health may continue in varying degree until the nerve pressure is adjusted away. I use only my hands to make such adjustments, which I do in a manner that is no part of the teaching or practice of any other health form of an earlier origin than Chiropractic. The Chiropractic adjustment by restoring normal action to these nerves supplies new life force to the weakened organs of the body. YOU OWE IT TO YOURSELF AND FAMILY to investigate this wonderful science and find out what it will do for you. If you want the best in the art, call and see me.

LOCAL SPORTSMAN TO LEAVE TOMORROW
FOR SIX MONTH ALASKAN HUNTING TRIP

On a hunting trip that will take him from Santa Ana for a period of six months, George Briggs, well known local sportsman, will leave here tomorrow for Alaska.

Bear, caribou, sheep and other animal inhabitants of the far northern country will be included in the hunting program of the local man who will go direct from Santa Ana to Seattle and from there by boat to Sitka, the capital of Alaska during the Russian regime.

Briggs will make Sitka his headquarters during the stay in the far north, leaving there at intervals for his hunts after big game. Accompanied by an Indian guide and boatman, he will cruise around through the straits and putting in at protective coves, make land and hunt.

This is Briggs' fourth trip to Alaska. During his last in 1920, he wrote a "story" from day to day of his entire trip. Filled with interesting and varied descriptions, the first of this account appears below. The remainder will appear from day to day on the sporting page of The Register.

We cleared the breakwater at 1 p. m., three hours late of schedule, with heavy weather promising and at eight that night the fog so heavy the whistle was blown every five minutes until midnight and twice we slowed down or engines were stopped. With breakfast call next morning I went on deck and it looked to me like the promise of a head sea and fairly rough weather. This proved true and a sparse luncheon crowd grew very much smaller at dinner as the breeze freshened and the sea grew rougher. Being a good sailor I answered my three calls a day and about nine that night turned into my berth just as we were entering Golden Gate.

I breakfasted aboard ship and then for exercise, proceeded to patrol San Francisco and call upon couple friends.

Dear old Frisco; what a flood of memories crowded themselves upon me as I walked up Market. It had been my first big town and we (my wife and I) played it to the limit—our limit. Frisco, the Bohemian city, where life had slipped along so pleasantly that the, at one time, two day stay had lengthened into three months and would have lasted, I don't know how long, except for financial reasons.

Onion, Mason, Relish, The Poodle Dog, Cliff House, all of them, how pleasant they made for you. The obliging steward, the gracious waiter, the wonderful cook—you didn't have to think they thought for you. Your part was to pay the check and after all what does the price matter so long as you get what you want. And then the wonderful art of being touched so adroitly you get cheery at the thought of your own generosity—oh well. When I left at eight o'clock they were loading

With Barry McPhee twirling in great form, the Santa Ana Edison company baseball team yesterday afternoon had little difficulty in trouncing the Santa Ana high school nine 4 to 0 in a four-inning session at Poly field yesterday afternoon.

McPhee fanned nine out of the thirteen men who faced him in the four cantos, only one Poly batsman nicking him for a blow. Coach Neff of the high school started Lorraine Bows on the hill and allowed Le Bard to finish. Both were accorded poor support by the Poly infield.

Critic Says Champion Too
Proud of Ring Title To Retire Now

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, April 12.—No claims have been filed with the boxing commission for the heavyweight crown that Jack Dempsey has "retired" out from under.

No claims probably will be filed as long as the dukes of the championship are in working order.

Dempsey, in talking of leaving flat a game which is more valuable than a diamond mine to pursue the digging of mere ordinary coal, talks in the same tone of the noted Cuban sugar merchants, which were bidding millions for the Dempsey-Carpenter fight until the purpose was served.

As far as practical purposes are concerned the heavyweight championship has been in retirement for almost two years and if he sees fit to employ his spare time down in a mine, instead of behind the footlights or in front of the lens, he can talk to the public as a line to keep him spending money.

Dempsey no doubt has gone seriously into the mining proposition because he is a smart young business man, and he knows the ring does not afford a life time

WORLD CHAMPS SET

Jimmy O'Connell Only New Player to Win Regular Berth With Giants

By BILLY EVANS
Breaking into the lineup of the New York Giants is as great a task as winning a berth with the Yankees.

The Giants will present only one change when the opening lineup is announced. Jimmy O'Connell, the $75,000 beauty from the Pacific Coast League, will be in center field.

O'Connell has proved beyond a question of a doubt that he can hit. If his work in the spring games is to be taken as a criterion, O'Connell will add a punch to McGraw's club that will make it an exceedingly difficult matter to dethrone the Giants in the National League.

In the preliminary work, playing a sun field has appeared to bother O'Connell. Left field is the sun garden at the Polo grounds. O'Connell will play either center field or right and it will probably be center, since Ross Young has for years been the custodian of right.

Coast Star Big Card
The Coast League star is certain to be a big card at the opening of the season. If he lives up to the reputation that has preceded him as a slugger he will be a big attraction all over the circuit as well as in New York.

O'Connell is a mighty likable chap. All the nice things that have been written about the youngster have in no way inflated his head or chest.

In talking baseball his greatest delight is praising Willie Kamm, who brought an even fancier price than did O'Connell, it being reputed that the Chicago White Sox turned over the equivalent of $100,000 for him. No matter what phase of baseball you talk with O'Connell, he will always somehow get back to Kamm.

"Willie is a wonderful ball player," says O'Connell. "He will show the big league fans how third base should be played. There never was a better fielder out our way, and he also can hit the ball."

Praises Kamm
"Kamm is such a great fielder that you rarely see a ball get by him. Invariably he comes up clean with the ball and in addition has a fine arm."

"There is no question about him making good. The White Sox are all set for a third sacker for years to come."

SPECIAL SIX TOURING $1525

Wherever motor cars are discussed and that's nearly everywhere, somebody is sure to remark—"That Studebaker Special-Six is a regular automobile."

The Studebaker Special-Six has been on the market for four years. Each year has seen added to it such refinements and improvements as time has made possible. Today there are more than one hundred and twenty-five thousand in everyday service and we don't believe there's a dissatisfied owner.

The name was selected because comparative tests against all kinds of cars made this car stand out as something special and apart from the ordinary run of automobiles. It requires special merit to warrant calling any car a special—and if the value isn't special the car quickly fades away.

Count the "Special-Sixes" that have appeared since the arrival of the Studebaker Special-Six. That's the proof of the value of the original Special-Six.

Library Association At Huntington Beach Was Organized in 1909

Note: This is the continuation of the early history of Huntington Beach, several chapters of which The Register has already published. In the earlier material the early formation of the village was traced and an insight into the later record of the then "Pacific City" given.

With the incorporation and choice of the first city council in 1909 there came an awakening of real civic interest and enterprise among the 500 loyal citizens of the beach. This newly created loyalty found an immediate outlet in the creation of a library association, the nucleus of the present library, granted to be one of the finest improvements in the city.

The Board of Trade and the Woman's club, both very small and "budding" organizations in themselves, backed the proposal to "do something" about a public library and a mass meeting of all the citizens was called for February 15, 1909, in the Woman's club house, Ocean avenue, near Main street.

Six Valiant Souls
Six answered the summons, according to the following names which appear on the register kept from the meeting: Mrs. R. H. Lindgren, Mrs. S. L. Blodgett, Mrs. Mary Manske, Mrs. C. D. Geartwell, Mrs. M. M. Nutt and Mr. B. B. Blodgett.

But the six proved sufficient for the adoption of a constitution and a set of by-laws which proved to be the "backbone" of the Library Association, with the following members on the first board of trustees: Mrs. C. D. Geartwell, Mrs. Mary Manske, Miss Alma Wilson, A. W. Everett and A. L. Reed. One dollar created any citizen a member and the women set about on a campaign to secure many such memberships.

Campaign Succeeded
The campaign succeeded. An entertainment swelled the library fund fifty dollars. A. L. Reed furnished the purchase price for a building, which was moved from the present Collins block to the corner of Walnut and Main streets.

It cost fifty dollars, and even though purchased in the "good old days" was only the ghost of a real establishment at that price. But the carpenters and painters were not to be outdone by their patriotic neighbors and "turning to" renovated the "shack" into a comfortable "book home." Everybody dug up their cast off furniture or spared any pieces not essential to their immediate home comfort, and all joined in a renovating party which made the "white elephant" pieces just "like new" with paint and varnish.

Fuel Is Donated
The fuel for the first winter came as a gift from H. Gibbs, the electricity and water were the yearly donation of the Huntington Beach company until the library was moved to its present home. June 14, 1909, the city trustees agreed to relieve the "library philanthropists" and take over the financing of the institution.

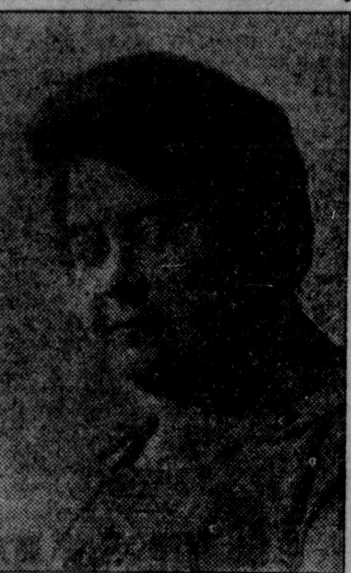

Miss Edith Brown, now deceased, was the first custodian of the "town literature." Miss Maude D. Adams of Santa Paula, took up the work in 1910 for the flattering remuneration of twenty-five dollars a month. Under her management the library was moved to the building now occupied by the second-hand store in the corner of Walnut and Third streets, and some new books were installed. In 1911 Miss Bertha Proctor, the present librarian, was called from her home in Long Beach to assume charge of the destinies of the public literature to be given the community.

Library Goes Forward
So from the first the library of Huntington Beach was a home child fostered and nourished by the loyal citizens of the town. But it was not until Miss Proctor was summoned from her duties as principal of Sherman Institute and Indian School at Riverside with eleven teachers at that time, that the library became a real force in the community. Under her firm guidance and tactful management, it has grown from a small struggling library association to its present status of a publicly supported institution in a comfortable Carnegie home, the weekly home "parlor" for hundreds of all men, the inspiration of the youth, and the resting place of the weary. The present building, which is the result of a gift of $10,000 from the Carnegie Corporation of New York to the city of Huntington Beach February 13, 1923, is located on five lots on the corner of Walnut and Eighth streets. The first four lots were purchased by money saved from the appropriations made by the city council 1911 to 1916. The fifth lot has been purchased since that time by money secured in the same way.

Library Is "Different"
Many remarks have been made publicly and in print concerning the "difference" between the home library and similar institutions. Just two days ago two women from out of town sought the answer to that question from acquaintances in the city. No one seemed ready to answer. But after all, the reply is not so difficult. When one enters the large front doors of the building expecting to find the usual long tables and uniform chairs, the systematic rows of coldly catalogued books, the formal little signs stating the "Best in Fiction" of "Latest in Science" he is pleasantly disappointed. True, the books are there, but they are shrouded and pushed gently into the background by an indefinable something termed "personality."

Every day in the year myriads of cut flowers raise their pretty heads from without the depths of half a dozen baskets scattered about the rooms in cheerful welcome. A huge fern, homing in the latest sized pot on the market, warms the light from the great front window, while a smaller, the child of the first, energetically sends forth its fronds from the top of the "pay book" counter. At all seasons of the year special touches cheer the reading rooms. At Christmas time it was a huge tree set on the librarian's desk, harmonizing with large "photos of Santa" and wreaths of red and green; at Easter time it is posters and placards on "bunnies" and "chickies," and in May it will be baskets and a springtime riot of wild flowers.

Librarian Active
From the first the library has taken an active part in all civic enterprises. During the war Miss Proctor not only served as secretary of the Red Cross organization, but was chairman of all the Red Cross drives. She compiled a series of charts on Food Conservation which were sent to the American Library convention at Saratoga, New York, July, 1918, and were chosen to be exhibited by the national convention in Washington, D. C., at an exhibit of the United States Food administration.

For two years the library has furnished two of the most popular of the Woman's club programs. Last year Miss Proctor secured George Wharton James, the Indian authority, and this year Rev. Henry Kendall Booth, an author on travels in Egypt. Realizing her artistic ability from the poster and special displays in the library, she has decorated for practically every large wedding or convention in the city since 1912.

Miss Proctor has a first-class life library certificate and a life teacher's certificate. She was originally from Janesville, Wis., where she was graduated from the high school. After coming to Long Beach, she attended the Los Angeles normal, now the University of California, Southern branch. The library has had 10,114 registered card holders since 1909. Until January 1, 1920, the number totaled only 287, showing that the oil industry has brought an aggregate of 7247 readers to the library during the past three years. Today there are 3400 active registered patrons, not including the hundreds who use the rooms for reading purposes only. Its shelves contain all of the encyclopedias, thousands of books, daily subscriptions to ninety magazines. And in addition to all this, in fact, superior to any statistics which might be compiled, it is the "city home" in Huntington Beach.

HUNTINGTON BEACH FIRE HALL SCENE OF EVENING BLAZE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Apr. 12.—If it hadn't been for the city fire department the city hall and fire house might have burned down last night.

The gas jet in front of the city hall set fire to the awning. It burned clear over to the side of the building occupied by the fire department.

A large number of citizens turned out to witness the blaze. One member of the city government pulled long and hard on the flag halyards to ring the fire bell, so great was the excitement.

The awning was worth about $70.

SURPRISE PARTY IS GIVEN HIGH PUPIL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 12.—A surprise party marked the evening of the birthday of Beatrice McKinney, Monday, April 9, at her home on Clay street. Mrs. C. V. McKinney, mother of the honored one, acted as hostess to the twenty young people invited.

A high school friend conventionally invited Miss Beatrice out for the first part of the evening, and during her absence the preparations were made. Returning home to a darkened home at 9 o'clock, she entered the front doorway on tip-toe, fearing to awaken the slumbering household only to be greeted with the loud shout of "surprise."

Among the guests of the evening were the Misses Cecil Whitel, Kathleen Helm, Blanche Platt, Cleo Adamson, Margaret Lockhart, Elizabeth and Thelma McKinney, and the Messrs. Fenton Chaplin, Cliff Brewer, Leonard Williams, Dick Holbert, John Laughlin.

BEACH STUDENTS TO DETERMINE CHAMPION SPELLER BY CONTEST

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 12.—Spring contest time at the grammar school is opening up with the last quarter-term. The 506 words to be used as the basis for the spelling contests to be held "sometime in May" were put into the hands of the children of the upper grades by Tuesday. The first try out for the reading contests will be held in the reading room Friday.

Silver loving cups are to reward the efforts of the most proficient pupils in the various subjects. Some of the contests will be held in the evening in the form of "community nights" to which the public will be invited. The children are showing keen interest in the "spell downs" to choose the best oral speller, and the reading contest which will combine learned selections with sight reading, the English competition in compositions and the arithmetic rivalry with figures.

FIVE CARS SMASHED IN BEACH COLLAPSE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 12.—Five cars were badly damaged yesterday afternoon when the roof of the Motor Inn garage, on Third street between Ocean and Walnut avenues, fell in. Poor construction was blamed for the collapse. One of the cars, a new seven passenger touring car, had the hood and top smashed. Two light cars and a small roadster were damaged in the tops.

Barlow and Hart, who but recently incorporated their garage business, suffered the greatest loss through the damage to the cars. J. W. Lawrence is the owner of the building.

GIRLS GLEE CLUB PLANS OPERETTA

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 11.—"The Feast of the Little Lanterns" is the title of an operetta being prepared by the members of the girls Glee club of the Grammar School for presentation some time in May.

The cast will consist entirely of girls in fitting costumes and is being directed by Miss Maude Tietzebach, music supervisor.

OFFICERS HUNTING SANTA ANA FORGER

FULLERTON, April 12.—Officers of the Southland today had received circulars from a Santa Ana firm describing a man who is said to have victimized several firms there out of more than $600 by passing worthless paper.

The man is described as an American of light complexion, weighing about 170 pounds and wearing khaki clothes and leather leggings. He is said to have been accompanied by a woman and a little girl. All checks are said to have been drawn on a Fullerton bank, and merchants are warned to be on the lookout for checks on banks in this city tendered by strangers.

DIVORCE TOPIC IS DISCUSSED BY HUSBANDS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 12.—An intense drama entitled "The Bill of Divorcement," as interpreted by Mrs. Harry C. Bender, reader of Los Angeles, caused quite a sensation at the regular meeting of the Woman's club yesterday afternoon. The husbands heard many varied versions of the divorce question at their dinner tables last evening, as no two women seemed to agree in an opinion concerning the tragical story which was presented to them in so passionately dramatic form.

Interpreting all eight of the characters of the play herself, Mrs. Bender gave word for word the actions and speeches of each one. As the heroine, Margaret Fairfield, 35 years of age, she suffered as though she were indeed the wife of a man sixteen years insane, from whom she had only but a twelve month before secured a divorce that she might marry the man of her heart's choice one week from the date that her husband makes his return; Hillary Fairfield, the husband, shell shocked in the World's war, with a trace of hereditary insanity in his family; Sidney Fairfield, the daughter of Margaret and Hillary, a girl of the modern 1933 school, believing in the freedom of personal actions in pursuit of true happiness; Aunt Hester, an aunt of Hillary, a member of the old school who takes the literal the marriage vows of "for better or for worse;" the Reverend Humphrey, a rector who has fought for the anti-divorce faction of the old line views against the modern laws giving women their freedom from drunkards, convicts, or insane minds; Christopher Humphrey, the rector's son, in love with Sidney, who believes one should not risk a family's life by intermarriage with one born into a family with ancestral insanity; Dr. Elliott, the physician who has fought for fair divorce laws for women and insists that Hillary must sacrifice his newly found mind for the happiness of his yet youthful wife.

The theme deals with the marriage laws of England. Should a woman tied to an insane man, remain with her husband or seek her own happiness? Margaret remains tied fifteen years and then seeks relief only to have her first husband awaken to correct consciousness and taunt her with disloyalty. What shall she do? "One of you must die," Dr. Elliott declares. "If the marriage laws are wrong, they must be changed, he argues with the distraught husband. "If your laws forbid, you must change your laws. If your church forbid you, you must change your church; and if God forbid you, you must change your God!"

In the end the modern daughter, tainted with the hereditary chance of insanity, renounces her lover, forces her mother to accept happiness at the hands of the man she loves, and devotes her life to the pleasure of her unfortunate father.

At the business session of the club preceding the drama, Mrs. Harry Carter, the newly chosen president, gave her "inaugural address, expressing her desire that the club should employ all of their group experiences for the benefit of the club, improving as they grew, doing more community and individual good as they advanced. Mrs. H. T. Dunning, the retiring president, presided.

CHARLES RAY PICTURE TO CLOSE AT WEST END

Charles Ray is said to do the greatest acting of his entire career in "The Girl I Loved," his second United Artists production, which closes its engagement at the West End tonight. The work of the star is given added zest by the fact that "The Girl I Loved" is the story of the personal love affair of the poet James Whitcomb Riley, as related in his poem of that title.

The picture is the quintessence of romance, the tale of two masculine hearts that beat for one girl—one of them fiercely. The ardor of this one (enacted by Charles Ray) brings into the plot many terrific incidents which serve to bring the star forward as an actor of powerful emotional force.

The picture's charm is heightened by one of the screen's most beautiful and talented actresses, Patsy Ruth Miller. She gives a fine account of herself in the scenes which carry her through the play in almost equal prominence with the star.

"ONE EXCITING NIGHT" IS EXCITING PHOTOPLAY

There is a thrill, a chill and a good laugh at the Temple theater where D. W. Griffith's new cinema, "One Exciting Night," opened last evening.

"One Exciting Night," is a mystery drama, with just enough comedy to relieve a tense situation when the plot begins to thicken. While Griffith has departed from the heavy and spectacular, he has produced a picture that will live among the immortals of the silver screen. It is one of the best photoplays ever shown and a well balanced cast of characters, which is headed by Miss Carol Dempster, who shares the honors with Henry Hull. The cast includes Porter Strong, Morgan Wallace, C. H. Crocker-King, Miss Margaret Dale, Frank Sheridan, Frank Wunderlee, Miss Grace Griswold, Miss Irma Harrison, Herbert Sutch, Percy Carr and Charles T. Mack.

The producer has left nothing undone to make the picture a real thriller. Spooky hands, secret panels, shadows and darting figures all have their play, while Porter Strong and Miss Harrison, playing servants, are humorous throughout. Just before the identity of the mysterious villain becomes known there is a storm scene, which is about the most realistic ever produced on the screen.

HARRY CAREY FILM AT PRINCESS TONIGHT

If Harry Carey had not chosen the stage and screen as a setting for his career it is dollars to doughnuts he would have been a pugilist.

Ever since his college days, Harry Carey has been reckoned one of the most skillful amateur boxers in the country. He has out fought many a professional pugilist in the bargain. His unusual talent in this line never was shown more vividly than in his latest and greatest Western vehicle "Good Men and True," in which he is appearing at the Princess theater.

In one scene Carey is compelled to fight single-handed against a band of heavy-fisted waiters in a Far Western cabaret. The fact that he put them all out in one of the bitterest fist fights ever shown on the screen attests his talents with the dukes.

ELINOR GLYN PICTURE OF MOVIE LIFE O. K.

An interesting study in contrasts is accorded in the settings of "The World's A Stage," the picture written by Elinor Glyn, portraying the inside life of a screen actress in Hollywood, which will be shown at the Yost for the last time tonight.

The spectator is first introduced to a play within a play, Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" being enacted by a cheap, barnstorming troupe. The curtain lifts in a small city "opry" house of a western hamlet, and we catch an insight into the trials of playing the road by a "fly-by-night" troupe.

The scene then shifts, and we are greeted with a studio set in full operation as it is found in Hollywood. There sits the director and there are the players. Close at hand is the cameraman and the continuity clerk who reads off the scenes. Then as the story progresses the studio is forgotten as the heroine is plunged into the domestic triangle of her other life—the life away from the studio. The "World's A Stage" is a powerfully dramatic picture, possessing genuine novelty and capably acted by Dorothy Phillips and an all-star cast.

by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Indianapolis, Ind.—"Now I want to tell you just what induced me to take your medicine. It seemed that I had come to a kind of weakness so that I could not carry a child its full time. The last time I was troubled this way I had a nervous breakdown and was a complete wreck. The doctor thought I would not live, and if I did that I would never be well and strong again. But I told them I was going to get well, that I was not going to die just then. My husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took six bottles of it. I soon got strong again and had three more children. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound ever since, and if I could see me now you would think I had always been well."—Mrs. MARY F. HERRICK, 234 Detroit St., Indianapolis, Ind.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire reproductive system, so that it may work in every respect effectively as nature intends.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Vendetta begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal and

SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Greyes falls in love with Janet and proposes marriage.

Michael disguises himself as Colonel Escombe and attends the wedding reception. Having stolen a pearl necklace, gift of Sir Norman to his bride, Sayers gives them to Beatrice to return to Janet. Michael answers a cipher message published in a paper and buys from the divorced wife of a politician, a bundle of manuscript, evidence against the woman's former husband. Upon reading the manuscript Michael learns that the reputations of a leading politician and Lord Kindersley are in his hands. Sayers ponders the best way to turn his prize into money.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

Michael Tells Story:

"Not on my account," I insisted. "The transaction must remain exactly as it is until I give the word."

I rang off, filled my bag, as usual, with stationery samples and took the tube to Bond Street, whence I walked on to South Audley Street. Upon arrival at my destination, I was informed that Lord Kindersley was at home, but it was scarcely likely that he would receive me unless I had an appointment. I risked the butler's being human, and bought my way as far as the waiting-room. Once arrived there, I managed to impress an untidy and bespectacled secretary with the idea that it might be worth Lord Kindersley's while to spare me a few minutes of his time. In the end I was ushered into the great man's sanctum.

"What can I do for you—Mr. Buckross?" he inquired, glancing at my card.

I was anxious to test my new identity, and I stood full in the light. It was obvious, however, that Lord Kindersley had not an idea that we had ever met before. "I have come to see you on a very serious matter, Lord Kindersley," I said, "and I am anxious that there should be no misunderstanding. I do not wish for a penny of your money. I am here, in fact, to save you from the loss of a great deal of it. My visit, nevertheless, has a very serious side."

He looked at me steadily from under his bushy eyebrows.

"Go on," he invited curtly.

"Last March," I continued, "you averted the threatened shipping strike and saved yourself the loss of at least one of your millions by bribing a well-known Labor leader to declare for peace instead of war. You and one other great shipowner were alone concerned in this matter. That other man, I gather, is dead."

Lord Kindersley was staring at me with a queer look in his eyes.

His voice, when he answered me, was unsteady.

"What on earth are you talking about?"

I took the two documents from my pocket and moved a little nearer to him.

"Here," I said, "is Rendall's proposed speech, counseling the strike and signed by the leaders of the various unions. Here, also, is your letter to Rendall, making him the offer of 50,000 pounds to withhold it, which sum was paid to him the next even at the National Liberal Club."

All the initial affability and condescension had gone from Lord Kindersley's manner. He looked like a man on the verge of a collapse.

"My God!" he muttered. "Rendall swore he had destroyed my letter!"

"He instructed his wife to do so. She retained it for her own purposes. A few months ago her husband divorced her. This is her revenge. She has sold the speech and the letter to me. I know, also, the other facts in connection with the case."

Lord Kindersley took out his handkerchief and mopped his forehead. Already he began to see his way out.

"I will buy those documents from you," he proposed.

"Your Lordship," I replied, "am not a blackmailer."

"You shall receive the money quite safely," he went on eagerly. I should not dream of communicating with the police. I shall look upon it as an equitable business transaction. Name your price. I am not a mean man."

"Neither," as I remarked before, am I a blackmailer," I persisted. "My use for these letters is predestined. They go to the press."

Lord Kindersley sprang to his feet.

"Listen," he said impressively: "no newspaper would deal with you as liberally as I am prepared to do. Those documents must not be published. If it were generally known that I had—ah—influenced Labor would declare war against me tomorrow. Not a man would stay in my employ. Besides, it would bring discredit upon my party. It would ruin me politically as well as actually. Come, now, Mr. Buckross, you look like a business man. Let's talk business. I'll write you a check for ten thousand pounds this morning."

"Your Lordship," I replied, "I deal with you the way you suggest, it would amount to a criminal offense. My conscience forbids it. I can deal with the press fairly and openly. Your political ruin I cannot help. Your financial ruin I may help you to modify. I offer you four days' grace, during which time you had better get rid of as many of your shares in the Kindersley Shipping Company as you can."

"You promise to do nothing for four days?" Lord Kindersley exclaimed eagerly.

"I promise."

He leaned back in his chair and mopped his forehead.

"Well, that's a respite, at any rate," he said. "Now, Mr. Buckross, you and I have got to understand each other on this deal."

"We shall never get any nearer understanding each other than we do at present," I assured him. "Rubbish!" I answered. "What I want you to do is to get that blackmailing idea out of your head. Look here: stay and have lunch with me, and we'll discuss the matter over a cigar and a glass of wine."

"I should be taking your lunch under false pretenses," I replied, rising and buttoning my coat. "You shall have the four days' grace which I have promised."

He followed me to the door, entreating me for my address. So convinced was he that I would change my mind, that he sent his secretary out into the street, after me, in the end I made my escape by promising to see him again on the evening of the third day.

WIDOW IN WANT IS AIDED BY KINDLY FOLK

Somewhere in Santa Ana, a widow, with two children, is going to be made happy by the donation of a house and lot—the gift of kindly persons whose names will never be known.

In fact, outside of this story of that bit of philanthropy, nothing will be known of the transaction. Because the widow herself is industrious and somewhat sensitive, her identity must remain a secret; because the persons interested in her welfare do their charity work quietly, their names must be hidden.

But the story is this—and it has a heart-throb in it which makes it worth while to devote space to its telling, even without the use of names.

The widow was a seamstress, earning, by long hours of labor, enough to assist in the support of her children. Then came misfortune; the woman's right hand was injured, so that she was unable to continue her work.

Rent came due; bills were to be paid; and soon the financial troubles of the little family became almost unbearable. Finally, as a crowning blow, came the sale of the cottage which they rented in a southeast section of the city.

The case came to the attention of several prominent churchwomen in Santa Ana. By donation, $1,500 was raised, and soon the house and lot, entirely paid for, will be given to the deserving mother.

The Girls' league of the high school here has set May 1 as the day for a big picnic of all the girls in school at the Orange county park. Games, contests, races, good "eats" and a general good time are being planned. Kathleen Trago, president of the league, will be generalissimo for the occasion.

Transportation will be supervised by Thelma Patton, games by Ruth Finley, supper by Katharine McMullen, and the various other activities connected with the picnic will be arranged by members of the cabinet under the direction of Miss Isabel Anderson, advisor for the league.

Mothers and teachers will be cordially invited but the girls have definitely stated that there will be no men allowed. This is to be strictly a feminine affair and the girls of the school are anticipating an unusually successful picnic.

MISSION PROGRESS TOLD AT MEETING

The mission maintained at the corner of First and Garfield streets is receiving the full co-operation of the Santa Ana advisory council of the Latin-American Mission. It was made clear at a banquet that the organization held at the First Methodist church. Progress made at the local institution was outlined by the Rev. B. E. Garcia, who was recently placed in charge.

Others who made addresses included Miss Alice Davidson, Mrs. Ida M. Howard, Miss Helen Lamson, Dr. Vernon M. McComb, C. M. Crist, the Rev. Will A. Betts, J. A. Cranston, Solomon Gonzales, Elroy Lucero, the Rev. H. G. Burgess, H. D. Dreisbach and Mrs. J. H. Leebrecht.

GROVE WOMEN ARE RUSHING CLUBHOUSE

GARDEN GROVE, April 12.—Much enthusiasm was shown at the last regular meeting of the Women's Civic club held at their club rooms.

Mrs. Henry, chairman of the reporting committee, handed in the report and it was decided unanimously that all decisions in regard to the building of the new clubhouse be left entirely to the committee.

The meeting was well attended and the membership showed their appreciation of the good work of the building committee by giving them a rising vote of thanks.

Several of the club members pledged themselves to raise ten dollars each for some extra money needed. Mrs. Adland, chairman of the finance committee, reported progress. At the next meeting of the club the election of officers will be held for the ensuing year.

A nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Horowitz, Mrs. Schakongase, Mrs. Kirvin, Mrs. Reyrum, was appointed.

3 Tustin Teachers Lose Relatives By Death In Week

TUSTIN, April 12.—Death this week took the mother of one grammar school teacher and the sisters of two others. The class at the school teachers are being taught by substitutes.

Mrs. Effie Slusser is in Santa Ana where her sister died last week.

Miss Clara Enderle is also in Santa Ana because of the death from burns of her sister.

Miss Madeline King is in South Pasadena where her mother died late Tuesday night.

FREEDOM GIVEN TRANSFER MEN AT ORANGE

ORANGE, April 12.—D. E. Newton and T. E. Newton, father and son, local transfer men, were free today after a jury in recorder's court yesterday was unable to agree on a verdict after the men had been tried on a charge of assault and battery against John P. Hansen, theater owner of Orange.

The jurors were reported to have stood eight for conviction and four for acquittal. The case was dismissed by Recorder G. W. Ingle shortly after 3 o'clock.

According to testimony submitted by Hansen, the complaining witness, the alleged offense occurred on the night of March 12 in the lobby of his theater.

The younger Newton, Hansen testified, was seated among a crowd of youths whom the theater owner declared were talking above an ordinary tone of voice. The proprietor asked them in a nice way, he said, to desist whereas the younger Newton is alleged to have said "I will do as I please."

Hansen then escorted him from the house, refunding his money at the box office, he testified. The young man at this point inquired for the theater owner's name and after receiving his answer is alleged to have remarked, "the next time I meet you, you better have your glasses off."

The meeting, it developed according to the testimony, occurred about forty-five minutes later when Newton and his father returned to the scene, finding Hansen in the lobby.

"I heard you accused my boy of being with a bunch of high school bums," the elder Newton is alleged to have remarked.

Hansen after denying making such a statement, saying he would summon an officer who overheard his exact remarks to prove it, backed toward the wall of the lobby. As he prepared to go for the officer the younger Newton testified, struck him near the right eye, knocking off his glasses.

The fight was on from that moment, with the theater owner, who declared he was not a fighting man, being slowly worsted.

The climax, Hansen said, came when he was floored on the sidewalk. Merchant Policeman Gene Fisher arrived on the scene at this point separating the combatants.

LAID BIBLE CLASS TEACHER'S WORK

The United Bible class, meeting at the United Presbyterian church here Tuesday evening, began its spring term with increased interest and attention. It was stated to be the best yet.

Not only Santa Ana people have joined this class but some from surrounding towns, Tustin, Orange, and Costa Mesa, are attending.

The teacher, the Rev. W. H. Pike of Los Angeles, has a winning personality and a gift for leading beyond the ordinary. Last term he took the class through the book of Romans in a series of eighteen lectures. This term, which will continue till June 1, will be in the Book of Revelation. Tuesday evening he gave an introductory lecture on the value of the study of prophecy, showing that a large part of the Bible is made up of prophecy, some fulfilled and much yet to be fulfilled. The Book of Revelation he showed to be not a book of unfathomable mystery but a book of prophecy in simple language and symbols, and a book of practical truth that every Bible student and teacher can apprehend.

Beginning next Tuesday evening he will take up the book, chapter by chapter, and so far as time will permit will give an outline of the truths taught in this book.

The real study of the book will begin that night, it was said, and all who would like to know more of the Book of Revelation are being invited to attend.

BEACH GIRLS LOSE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 12.—The Girls' Baseball team of the high school was defeated in a closely fought practice contest with Orange Monday afternoon at the Orange field, score six to five. MATRIMONY IS BURLESQUED BY CLUBMEN

FULLERTON, April 12.—E. J. Marks, duly elected president of the Fullerton Rotary club, presided over a carnival of fun at his first meeting yesterday. For a time, after the opening of the meeting at a local hotel, Marks was unable to decide whether he had been elected president of a thriving matrimonial bureau or a progressive Rotary club.

E. A. Bear, manager of the Fullerton-Anaheim exchanges of the telephone company, impersonated a blushing matrimonial candidate and gave an uncomfortable half hour to Roy McConaughy and Robert Ridenour, bachelors of the Rotary club, when he appeared as a candidate in answer to an alleged advertisement for brides inserted by the two men. The "brides" was escorted into the Rotary club headquarters by Mae Dixon, "flower girl" of the California, supposedly in response to an advertisement for a bride inserted by McConaughy and Ridenour. This caused considerable fun and laughter for the inauguration of Marks as president of the Fullerton Rotary club.

Today's meeting of the local organization was attended by Rotarians from all of Orange county, and was marked by a 100 per cent Fullerton attendance.

The Rev. M. E. Bollen, pastor of the Fullerton Baptist church, was the speaker at today's luncheon.

NEW FOLDER WILL BE SHOWN COUNCIL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 12.—The proof of a new "Official Folder," of which it is proposed to circulate 20,000 copies, is in the hands of Major C. H. Harter, the editor, and will be submitted to the city council at an informal meeting to be held this evening in the city hall.

Fourteen pictures of the industries and beauties of the city are the main feature of the pamphlet. They include panorama views of the oil fields, the beach, with its $70,000 pier, and Main street,—a picture of the proposed combination hotel and theater being planned by the Huntington Beach Investment company, the new city hall and the latest picture of the grammar school with its 10,000 children grouped in front of the building.

Major Harter, who is the "father" of the pamphlet as well as the editor, plans to circulate copies to the more than two thousand newcomers from the East, who are entering Los Angeles daily. He points out in a vivacious description of the beach, the advantages of newcomers settling in a booming city on the new coast route boulevard.

CHURCHWOMEN WILL GIVE HISTORY PLAY

Women of the Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist church here are preparing an historical drama in honor of Founder's day, to be presented at the church tomorrow evening, the Rev. J. H. Hughes, assistant pastor of the church, announced today.

According to the Rev. Mr. Hughes, the play has been given at other places with fine success. With much talent in the cast and with the costumes of half a century ago giving a quaint effect, it will be entertaining to all who avail themselves of the opportunity to see it, he said. There will be no charge for admission. The program will begin at 7:30 o'clock. Following is the cast:

Prolocutor, Mrs. Clyde M. Crist; Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Geo. Parker; Mrs. Parker, Mrs. A. D. McGee; Mrs. Flanders, Mrs. J. W. McCormack; Mrs. Kingsbury, Miss Jessie Miller; Mrs. Rich, Mrs. D. Caldwell; Mr. Harris, R. R. Caldwell; Dr. Durbin, R. R. Lutes; Dr. Parker, A. H. Theal.

WAITRESS THINKS PRESIDENT TAKES HIS FOOD LIGHTLY

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 12.—How a president looks to a waitress was today revealed by Grace Hudson of New York city, who served his table at the Bonair Vanderbilt hotel here.

Her estimate is summed up in the statement that Warren G. Harding is a sadly light eater for so big a man; that his table manners are exquisite, and that he does not give proper attention to the small amount he does eat, because he always is in so much of a hurry to get away to play golf.

"He really doesn't eat anything," she said. "Every noon he has a bowl of bread and milk—half and half—and nothing else. At night he eats a little turkey, some potatoes, always a very light meal, and has no dessert. That made it a lot easier for me to wait on him."

"He never bothers with a finger-bowl. He has no time for that, because he is some anxious to get away for a game of golf. He never came down for breakfast. He and Mrs. Harding had that in their room."

"The president was always very gallant with the women. He talked very little. I thought he seemed to be a very nice man, and that as for being president it didn't mean a thing to him."

ASTRONOMERS
At a recent meeting of an astronomical society, the star-gazers decided that all the existing heavenly bodies—stars and planets—had been discovered. Yesterday's Answer:

The diagrams show how, with three straight cuts, A may be made into four pieces that may be put together to form B.

THE CITY A BUSINESS CONCERN

Now consider this, please, if you are in doubt as to the necessity of having a competent manager for the business of the City of Santa Ana—a "City Manager," if you please.

The City of Santa Ana is just a big business corporation, engaged in rendering public service, such as police and fire protection, water supply, the disposal of sewage and garbage, the paving and cleaning of streets, etc., etc. It has assets of about fifty million dollars and renders service to about twenty-five thousand people. The business of this corporation is now transacted by a Board of Directors (City Trustees) of five who serve for nominal pay and who, of necessity, by reason of the law and system under which we operate, MUST delegate the real management of the city to a dozen or more heads of departments and foremen, without centralization of authority or responsibility, and largely without co-ordination.

For comparison, take the First National bank of Santa Ana. This is a big business corporation, rendering a quasi public service, and having assets of about ten million dollars. Its business is supervised, and to some extent managed, by a board of directors of nine men. But do these nine men leave the executive functioning of the concern to the various heads of departments and their assistants? Decidedly they do not. They employ a general manager (the president) and an assistant general manager (the cashier) both of whom are paid large salaries to carry out the policies formulated by the directors and to supervise and co-ordinate the work of the various heads of departments.

Although having assets perhaps less than one-fifth the City of Santa Ana, the stockholders of the bank would not retain a board of directors any longer than it would take to call a meeting and fire them if they allowed the business of the bank to be conducted in a loose-jointed, irresponsible manner, without a thoroughly competent and trained manager, with ample authority, to whom they could delegate their powers and whom they could hold fully responsible for results.

Without a competent manager, any bank would fail; and the only reason cities don't fail for lack of managers is that they have practically unlimited capital resources. In other words, cities can run at a loss, scientifically and economically speaking, while banks cannot.

SERVICE BY CITY MANAGER

When a change in form of government reduces the number of complaints of municipal service in one department ninety per cent, there must be something worth while in the form of government.

A city managership at Sacramento did that very thing. Since we are to vote on a city manager form of government next Tuesday, we should read what Clyde L. Seavey, former city manager of Sacramento, now a member of the state railroad commission, has to say. Excerpts from one of his addresses appeared on the editorial page of The Register yesterday, and other excerpts appear today.

Concerning the reduction of complaints in a single department similar experiences mark the history of city managership at Sacramento—Mr. Seavey said:

We took over the garbage collection in Sacramento, and in the first year of operation, we put it on a paying basis, and from the operation of the garbage department, based on the charges that were in existence before the city took it over, we have made a saving, we have netted a saving of a little over $8,000 in the first eight months of this year. We have purchased equipment at a cost of about $12,000, and by the end of this year, we expect to have nearly if not wholly eliminated the cost of the equipment, and to have conducted the department in a manner practically satisfactory to the city. In evidence of this, before we took it over, the complaints from garbage collections were coming in at about the rate of 100 to 110 a day. They are now coming in, and have been for several months past, to the extent of 10 to 15. We never expect to eliminate them, but we believe we have reduced them very appreciably, perhaps to a minimum.

And since that kind of things is done and has been done in cities that have changed their form of government to the city manager form, why should we hesitate about making the change?

MARATHON DANCING

"Dancing craze" is right. The latest manifestation of the mania is an epidemic of long-distance dancing. It has become international. To the amazement of Americans, our supposedly stolid English cousins recently started in to dance the clock around, and did it with such zest that one dancing dervish succeeded in hopping around for 25 continuous hours. But his fame was brief. For a Texas girl, stimulated by the jazz atmosphere of New York, promptly proceeded to burn up a ballroom floor for 27 hours, thereby establishing a record that may stand for a while. Incidentally, the young lady wore out a pair of shoes, a pair of stockings and five dancing partners.

Yes, it's a mad world. This may be no more foolish than pounding a piano against time, or walking from New York to San Francisco. And there is always a certain wholesome stimulation, to a tired world, in showing that something seemingly impossible can be done. But with all the profitable, constructive tasks of life, private and public, calling for all the vigor and stamina anybody happens to possess, this sort of thing does seem like a sad waste of energy.

HEAVY CREDIT DEMAND

The heaviest demand for credit in the history of the city was reported from one of the country's big commercial centers in connection with its Easter trade. It was found that most of the requests for charge accounts were sound and could be granted. A surprisingly small number of applicants had to be refused.

The credit men say that requests for credit are a fair barometer of the state of retail business. An unusual number of requests accompanied by many rejections indicate the inability of customers to pay cash. This means times are hard and business generally poor. On the other hand, when requests are numerous and ability to pay promptly is indicated, it means that times are good, that people have money and are simply using the charge accounts because they are more convenient.

The situation as it stands is gratifying, but the seeds of trouble are here also. The habit of running bills has its rangers. Unless provision is made regularly to meet the obligations, they soon mount up. A slump comes. The income drops. The bills and the charge habit remain to make hard times harder. In good times or bad there is only one way to play the credit game safely. That is, to run no bill, large or small, for which the money is not already assured when the debt is contracted.

Ute Indians have been breaking loose lately in Utah. They probably think it isn't fair for whites to monopolize the gunplay.

Water Report Is Out

Redlands Campaign.

Last fall when the campaign was on in regard to the adoption of the proposed water power initiative act, The Facts urged that the submission of the measure was premature; that the Legislature had ordered an investigation into the water resources of the state, with the very thought in mind of development of them to the highest possible degree, and it would not be the part of wisdom to act favorably on any measure in advance of receipt of that report.

The report has now been submitted to the Legislature and will give us something to go by in studying the measures that are sure to be offered in regard to the development and use of the waters of the state available for power producing properties. This paper has received a copy of the report and hopes to have such a study made of it that when occasions shall require, advice that can be depended upon can be given.

The plans show that it is possible to irrigate, in the state of California, 18,000,000 acres of land, which is four-fifths of all the agricultural lands in the commonwealth. And the commission which prepared this report says further investigation will undoubtedly show even a larger area than that possible of irrigation, but at such an increased cost that such development is far in the distance.

The total average cost per acre to deliver a first class supply of water to the region of use, the engineers estimate would be $80. The amount is arrived at in this way: The average cost of storage works necessary to develop a full supply of water for the entire 18,000,000 acres, through all seasons without shortage, would be $45 per acre. The cost of canals with appurtenant structures to transport this water to the regions of use would average $35 per acre.

To effect the watering of so large an area at these costs it is necessary over the bulk of California's lands to adopt a coordinated scheme of development and distribution of water that comprises very large areas in inter-related works. The report describes a comprehensive plan in six units, grouped according to the natural conformation of the drainage areas.

Special features of the plan are that the waters of the regions where surplus exists are conveyed by the cheapest routes to the areas of deficiency. It provides for irrigating over fourteen million acres of lands in the Great Central Valley of California from waters of the Sacramento river diverted into lower reaches of the San Joaquin by means of a dam across Carquinez Straits. The water would be spread upon the San Joaquin Valley lands by a series of pumping lifts. In Southern California the plan provides for a coordinated scheme of surface and underground storage whereby about 250,000 acres of the irrigated in the southern part of the state, additional to that now under water. The reservoirs involved in the maximum of the state's water are some 260 in number.

Approves Courtesy Prizes

Sacramento Bee.

An unusual and somewhat better prize contest has recently been inaugurated in the high school of Accomac, Va. The prizes are not given for scholarships, nor yet for athletic prowess, but for courtesy.

The idea is good, and one hopes it will spread. Courtesy, one gathers from even the most casual contact with the young people of the day, is a virtue no longer in fashion. It is of course true that courtesy, to be worth anything to the person who offers it, must be spontaneous, and not the result of a hope to profit by the discomfiture of others. And though far from ideal, the prize methods would undoubtedly produce effects. It would at least let the young know that there is a reason for one's not being a lout, even if it did not make quite clear what that reason is. Moreover, courtesy, like its opposite, is largely habit in its outward manifestations. The time when people form habits easily is youth. Several years of working for a courtesy prize in school could hardly fail to leave a favorable impression upon succeeding years.

The Accomac plan, therefore, heartily recommended to the attention of every one who is at present struggling with the problem of how to keep good manners from going permanently out of fashion.

Words Into The French

Fresno Republican.

Frederic J. Hackel, forms a correspondent, on this page, that the French Academy, which is the arbiter of the French language, has recently added two English words to the acceptable French vocabulary. These are "interview" and "gentleman."

Interesting, because of the different slants on life, for which the French feel called upon to borrow from the English speaking nations. "Interview" is a practical newspaper institution, a part of the method by which public opinion is gathered and spread and molded. "Gentleman" is a part of the polishing values of life. To be a "gentleman" is not an inherent right or an inherent duty, as it is to be a "man." And being a "gentleman" does not constitute being a "gentleman," for the "gentleman" the French would have a means of expression. The French do not need to come to the English speaking nations to get a word for "man"; they have it themselves.

But, we may flatter ourselves that the conception we have of a "gentleman," not a matter of birth or money or manners, not of culture solely, not of inherent quality, but of something that has been developed wherever the English tongue is spoken. It is not social alone, nor political alone, nor industrial alone, but has grown within the influence of our industrial, social and political democracy.

Port Trade Is Huge

Long Beach Press.

Growth of trade through the port of Los Angeles has been and is phenomenal. Expert assertions that only the harbor of New York exceeds this port is of immense interest here. The last quarter of 1922 showed total business at the port here was $1,712,829 tons. This comprised intercoastal business, coastwise tonnage and foreign.

The whole of Southern California is benefiting hugely by this harbor development. The benefits will be even more widely diffused as ocean-going trade from this expanding harbor becomes greater and greater in volume, as is assured. There should develop here the most remarkable tonnage and diversity of sea traffic in America. The dominating ocean of the future, commercially, is to be the Pacific. Southern California's great port is the focal receiving and distributing center for an ocean traffic destined perhaps to become the most astounding in the history of any port in America or abroad.

Action, Not Talk, is Needed

Why a City Manager?

By CLYDE L. SEAVEY, member of the State Railroad Commission, former member of the State Board of Control, former city manager of Sacramento.

As to what we have accomplished in Sacramento, I do not speak in any vain way, because it was there to be accomplished, and rather easily. What we accomplished has been accomplished in nearly every municipality that has changed to the manager form of government. And to a great extent the reason for the accomplishment is that it is a better form of municipal government than the others. To my mind it is the best form of municipal government, both theoretically and practically, that has ever been attempted in the United States.

The first year we reduced taxes by approximately $123,000, and provided for more actual work to be done in the way of street improvements and street cleaning and things of that kind, than had been done before.

At the beginning of July, 1921, that being the middle of our fiscal year, we found a deficit of something like 20 per cent in the available funds of the municipality. That is to say for the remaining six months we had to run on about 40 per cent of the year's appropriation, and the records which we kept showed that we accomplished more work in proportion with that 40 per cent than had been accomplished on the 60 per cent in the first half of the fiscal year. That again is not necessarily a matter of credit to any individual. I ascribe the largest share to the fact that the funds and the operation of the city's affairs could be handled more easily, more directly, and more economically, because of the form of government, because there was no overlapping of departments, because there was actual, absolute coordination between all the departments, for the reason that there was direct responsibility to one head on the part of all city heads of departments and city employees.

And there was no question about what that meant. It meant that we got results for every dollar expended. And results were what we were looking for. We were not looking in any way for any political manipulation or machination. That is one of the things that cannot be avoided in other forms of municipal government. There is no use talking about it, it is absolutely necessary in some forms of government, even to accomplish good in the government, to manipulate politically, and that is always at the cost of efficiency and economy in any government.

At the end of the first year, which was the first of July last, when we had operated six months under the old budget and six months under the new budget, which was drawn after we went into office, I found that we had actually operated a year for $103,000 less in operating cost of the same functions of the city affairs, than the government had been operated the year previous. And the records show that, as I have indicated before, we have accomplished more actual work, more streets repaired, and such things, than the year previous. That again was because there was the possibility of a properly working organization.

FAIRY SONG

Have ye left the greenwood lone?
Are your steps forever gone?
Fairy King and Elphin Queen,
Come ye to the sylvan scene,
From your dim and distant shore,
Never more?

Shall the pilgrim never hear
With a thrill of joy and fear,
In the hush of moonlight hours,
Voices from the folded flowers,
Faint sweet flutter-notes as of yore,
Never more?

"Mortal! ne'er shall bowers of earth
Hear again our midnight mirth;
By our brooks and dingles green
Since unhallowed steps have been,
Ours shall tread the forests hoar
Never more!

"Ne'er on earth-born lily's stem
Will we hang the dewdrop's gem;
Ne'er shall reed or cowslip's head
Quiver to our dancing tread,
By sweet fount or murmuring shore,
Never more!"

IN THE LONG AGO

From the Register Files

April 12, 1909
Clyde Taylor was found guilty of stealing an automobile from Judge J. W. Fowler.

Frank Ritchey, Tustin, was driving one horse and leaving another when the horse at the rear stopped suddenly and jerked Ritchey out on the road. Ritchey was badly bruised and shaken up. The Scribbles club honored Miss Una Fowler with luncheon at the Dragon. Members present were Misses Helen Young, Grace Hogsett, Alta Kenyon, Irene Robinson, Kassa Bailey and Lealie Roberts, and Albert Fields, Ellis Breddon and Charles Ball. Elmer Curtis has had Tungsten lights put in his shop and he says that a bald head can now be discovered without difficulty and the porter can tell with ease whether you need a shine.

Those taking part in the Y. W. C. T. U. meeting at the home of Miss Ruth Burns were Misses Zella Guley, McCormack, Clark, Sarah Gardner and Isabelle Walker, and Merle Ramsey.

Around the Town

By the Staff

HOOTING WITH THE HOOT OWLS

Socrates formed the first walking club but the Hoot Owls of Portland claim the honor of having formed the first peripatetic radio club.

Membership in night life organization of radio bugs that hold their meetings via the ether waves during the hours when most people are gaining their beauty sleep has crept from the City of Roses to the County Seat of the Big Little County.

"Bill" McCaffery, mechanic at a local battery station, is one of Santa Ana's most ardent "listeners-in" while the Grand Screech of the Hoot Owls conducts the order of business from his perch in the tower of the Oregonian building, 900 miles from Fourth and Main streets.

Each meeting hears the reading of membership application lists that stretch from San Diego, to Texas, Montana, Michigan, through Canada, even to Honolulu, it was reported, and back again to Portland, Oregon.

A long drawn out wall promptly at 11 o'clock every Monday and Friday night announces the entry of the Hoot Owls into the radio travel waves. Midnight has past before Sweet William, the goat mascot, gives his last bla-a-a-a that signals that the Hoot Owls are "signing off" for the night.

"Keep Growing Wiser," Order of Hoot Owls, Portland, Oregon, the City of Roses.

Then follows a fearful bedlam of screeches, and howls, and whistles, and demonic, blood curdling shrieks on the travel waves as radio sets all over America and Canada begin "tuning in" for the Hoot Owl meeting.

The listener is reminded of the bestial throating of vanquished dragons, blowing shrill blasts of flame and steam from their frothing nostrils, as they die beneath Prince Charming's magic sword in childhood fairy tales.

Again it is like the impotent fury of caged demons, struggling to release themselves from a far away dark and mysterious Hades to harry the contented lives of insignificant humans on this peaceful earth.

Vague fears creep into the blood of the listener as he remembers fragments of astronomical knowledge, and speculates on the immeasurable distances out there in the night where a harassed ray of energy searches for a voice.

He feels that it is he that is caged. Trapped on this little earth, unable to move, unable to visualize his position except through the small fund of knowledge supplied by scientific giants that at the moment seem but ignorant pigmies. Blind to everything but a filmy picture of this little earth, a speck of dust in a solar system that is but one of many revolving in infinite space.

But the pessimistic visitor, a layman among savants, is reassured as his gaze returns to the face of the quiet man, sitting before his instrument, knowingly turning dials, listening with an intelligent ear, and obviously certain of his ability to control that wild force howling in the night.

Bill said he had been listening to those noisy waves of unknown content virtually every night for the last fifteen years. He discusses at great length the various theories as to whether radio messages travel through the earth or through the air. He recites the adventures and findings of radio pioneers; of trips around the world taken by these men to conduct personal experiments in the various and varied phases of radio, which in its genesis is as much of a mystery today as in the beginning of human knowledge.

Bill speaks with a technical mind of the revolutionary theory advanced, and partially proven, he said, that electric energy travels from the negative to the positive pole instead of the reverse. "Yet," said Bill, "the electrical system today is built upon what now seems to be a fallacy."

With almost the miraculous suddenness of a genie appearing in the room, the clear voice of the Grand Screech of the Order of Hoot Owls rings out from the cone of the magnavox.

Faetious, flippant, and with a delightful modulation that appeals to the listener, the Grand Screech is saying:

"Tonight we have an application for membership from J. G. Kelly of Los Angeles. Ah—I beg your pardon, I mean Loe Ahng-hay-lais, California, the land of the lemon and the home of the prune. Shall we let him in?"

"Let him in," replies the voice of the Grand Keeper of the Goat. The tinkle of Sweet William's bell in heard as the mascot acknowledges his duty of initiating the new member.

These laughing men, giving the quiet hours of night to jollification and airy periffage (the pun was unintentional) are among the explorers of today.

A CHILLY SITUATION

Bob Fernandez may know all about typewriters but as an amateur "Alias Jimmy Valentine" he takes the prize.

Bob put his clothes in the steel locker at the "Y" hut an evening or two ago, snapped the padlock, and played three games of volley ball in happy ignorance of coming troubles.

Breasting out of a cold shower a little later he began working the combination device on the padlock, which held his clothes within the locker secure from molestation.

"Eight times to the left, five to the right, three to the left, three to the right," he said, and suited the actions to the words.

But the padlock did not open. The typewriter expert did the trick once more. Still no result. He tried again, leaning an attentive ear to the padlock, listening to the clicks:

"Eight times to the left, five to the right, three to the left, and three to the right."

Bob got worried and alternately turned cold and hot; cold when he surveyed his person exposed to the chilly atmosphere; hot when he saw the picture of himself going home in a barrel. He twirled the combination dial of the obstinate padlock with the frantic haste of a modest young man adjusting his necktie as he beholds a fair companion in the distance.

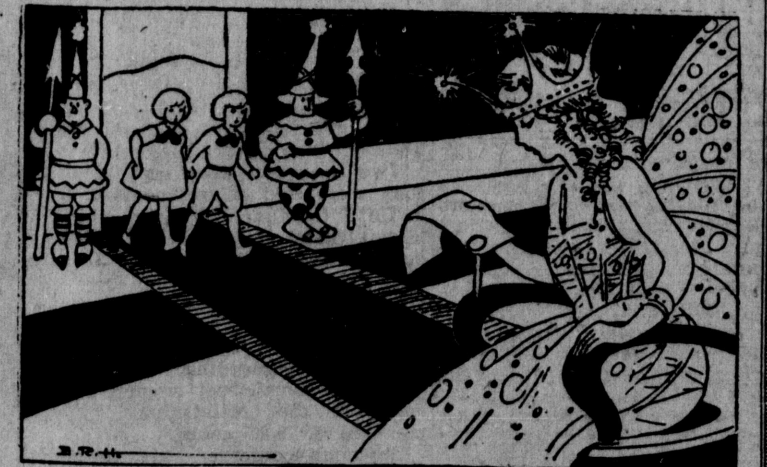

"Eight to the left—"

Bob felt the padlock give a convulsive shudder and surrender its mastery of the locker and the typewriter expert's street clothes. Bob knows a lot about typewriters, but he admits he still has something to learn about padlocks.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Barton

No. 1—BING-BANG LAND

Nancy and Nick went straight to the Fairy Queen's palace from Sugar-Plum Land.

"Is that all?" they asked. "Is there anything more we can do?"

The Fairy Queen was reading a letter when they came in, and now she touched it with her hand.

"Here is more bad news, my dears," she said. "It seems that as soon as you get one of my nine hundred and ninety-nine kingdoms into order, another one has to cut up capers. I'm ever so upset."

"Which one is it now?" asked Nick. "And what has happened?"

"It's Bing-Bang Land," answered the Fairy Queen. "There's war in Bing-Bang Land between the wooden soldiers and the tin soldiers, and if it doesn't stop, I'm afraid they'll kill each other all off and there won't be any left for Christmas."

"Oh, Jimmy!" cried Nick. "That would be dreadful!"

"Yes, wouldn't it!" nodded the queen. "Bing-Bang Land is the place all the toy soldiers stay until Christmas time because there wouldn't be room for them anywhere else. Beside there are pistols, pop-guns, toy-cannon, firecrackers and torpedoes ready for the Fourth of July, so you see the soldiers have plenty of things to fight with. Do you and Nancy think you could do anything?"

"We can try," declared Nick bravely. "I've got a soldier suit myself and I can get it."

"No, no, no!" objected the queen. "No, indeede. We have enough fighters. We need doctors and a nurse. Nick, you can be a surgeon and Nancy, you may be a Red Cross nurse."

Then she turned to one of her fairies. "Silver Wing, go and bring Master Nick a satchel with adhesive tape, glue, string, paint and putty. And bring Miss Nancy a cap and apron; also some bandages and scissors."

Away went Silver Wing and soon returned with the things which she handed to the Twins. "Your Magic Shoes will take you straight to the place," said the Fairy Queen. "Now, goodbye my dears."
